$20 Monthly Needed To Give Mother Operation, Aid Child

Atlantans Urged To Help Raise Funds for Opportunity No. 6.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Those who have the blessed assurance that their children's dreams will come true Christmas morning should listen to the one request that 9-year-old Ann H. is making of Santa Claus:

"I don't want anything but to have mother get that operation that the doctor says will make her well."

Ann is a practical young person.
She is a wise beyond her years.
She knows there is no place in Santa Claus' bag for such necessary things as operations.

The only Santa Claus she has ever known—and that was several years ago—brought only a few toys that gave her no actual happiness, just some few moment's diversion from the strife and turmoil that was all that she had known as home since she had been able to sit up and observe what was going on around her.

Father Disappears.
The first peace that came into this child's life was when her father disappeared. He is gone now —"whereabouts unknown." Ann does not miss him very much. Life has been hazardous in the H. home, but, at least, it has been quietly so.

Mrs. H.'s story is simple.
She was the pride and joy of adoring parents. Her health was frail and her parents had lavished every attention they could afford on her.

She married—and that was the end of her happiness.
Her husband drank and was abusive. The years that followed were so filled with misery and humiliation that she is now broken and old beyond her years.

Her father, who warned her against her marriage, is trying to do what he can to help her, but bad luck struck him severely sev-

$2,000 EXEMPTION ON HOMESTEADS SIGNED BY RIVERS

sals But Is Rebuffed.

Governor Rivers late yesterday signed the $2,000 homestead exemption bill, the first major tax relief measure of the special session of the assembly.

The signing of the bill, which exempts owner-occupied homes and farms of $2,000 in state, county and county school district taxes, climaxed a hectic legislative day which was marked by an attempt of Speaker Roy V. Harris to bring about sine die adjournment by next Thursday but which resulted only in passage by the house of a resolution providing for a recess from December 22 to 28 when the assembly would return and finish its work.

Recess Resolution.
Senator J. P. Shedd, of Jessup, offered a similar recess resolution in the senate and it was referred to the rules committee. The house resolution also was read in the senate and it, likewise, was sent to the rules committee.

The governor affixed his signature to the homestead exemption bill after a substitute, written by the house, had been accepted in the senate without change. Secretary John W. Hammond rushed the bill to the chief executive's desk to provide for the signing before midnight.

The administration forces won a victory in the senate when Senator David S. Atkinson, of Savannah, succeeded in getting through a motion for immediate consideration of the substitute de-

1937 TAX DIGEST RISES 14 MILLIONS

Valuations of Real and Personal Property Go to $364,685,201 Total.

A 14-million dollar increase on the 1937 tax digest over that for 1936 was indicated yesterday as digest figures through December 14 showed real estate and personal property valuations in the city totaled $364,685,201, compared with $349,784,773 for last year.

The tentative tax digest, as compiled by city tax assessors and receivers, was turned over to the budget commission by the board.
It showed returns on real estate and personal property at their highest level in five years. In 1932 the digest contained valuations of $381,203,889.

Revenue from all sources will be $154,132.45 in excess of the board's expectations, it was said.
Budget Being Formed.
The budget commission is now formulating its budget for the coming year.

Real estate valuations for 1937 amounted to $247,877,145, while 1936 valuations totaled $244,067,- 582. Personal values were $116,808,056 this year, compared with last year's total of $105,- 717,191.

On the basis of the tax digest, revenue would be $6,666,729.84.
Appropriations by the budget commission have been made against an anticipated revenue of $6,512,597.

Street taxes levied this year so far totaled $116,298, while sanitary taxes were $487,173. Total collections from these two sources is expected to bring in $603,- 471.21.

Part Due to Mayor.
Part of the increase was attributed to the increased tax and sanitary rates brought about by Mayor Hartford to decrease the city deficit and to put the city on a cash basis.

A two-mill advance in the advalorem jumped the rate from $1.50 on each $100 valuation to $1.70, while the sanitary rate was stepped up, according to a scale, from $3 of last year to $11, the high for 1937.

Bloody Riot at Alcatraz Is Inevitable, Says Former Inmate of U. S. 'Devil's Island'

CONGRESS IS HIT IN LEWIS SPEECH

Labor Leader Says Lawmakers Ignoring Problems Menacing America.

By the Associated Press.
John L. Lewis, in a speech to a tumultuous convention in Pittsburgh of steel workers yesterday, asserted congress was ignoring problems which menaced America and indicated there was slight hope for peace between the warring CIO and AFL.

"Mills and plants throughout the nation are closing down and turning men out," the militant CIO chieftain told more than 900 delegates representing 1,080 SWOC lodges in the United States and Canada.

"There are no adequate arrangements made for relief and no prospects of other employment," he said.

"Something must be done, but no suggestion has been put forward except from the house of labor, and those suggestions so far have not been heeded or recognized or adopted."

Prospects Dimmed.
Dimming the prospects for peace at next Tuesday's conference in Washington between leaders of the CIO and AFL, Lewis declared:

"The CIO offered to walk in with its entire four million members. The AFL refused that. It says it will take one million now and, if these can be digested, it will take the other three later."

'No. 34' Asserts Men Would Rather Die Than Live in Despair.

An account of life on Alcatraz Island, the grim federal penitentiary in San Francisco bay, where Al Capone and other public enemies are imprisoned, is related here by former inmate No. 34. He was the first prisoner to be sent to Alcatraz after it was converted from a United States army prison to an American "Devil's Island" in 1933. He has just been released after serving a five-year sentence for forgery at McNeil Island penitentiary and at Alcatraz, where he was sent after breaking his parole.

North American Newspaper Alliances, Inc.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 16.—
Thank God, I am out of Alcatraz.
For many months I have been tense, anxious, waiting for the signal that will start one of the bloodiest riots in the history of penal institutions in the United States.

It is bound to come. For months it has been festering in the hearts of the men imprisoned there. Many of them have life sentences. They would sooner die in a bloody riot than live the endless days of despair that are ruining their minds and their souls.

This riot will not be the result of warped minds or because the men enjoy bloodshed and violence.
They will riot because they have a faint hope that the resulting investigation will bring some of the actual conditions in the institution before an indifferent public.

The policy at Alcatraz is to deflate the men's egos, to turn them into automatons.

DEMOCRATS SPLIT OVER FARM BILL

Northern Senators Join With Republicans on Dairy Plan South Fights

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—
A warning by Secretary Wallace against price-fixing substitutes for the pending farm bill split the ranks of Democratic senators today, and while tempers still boiled, Republicans and northern Democrats joined to win a vital change in the legislation.

The senate approved, 41 to 38, an amendment by Republican Leader McNary, of Oregon, to protect dairy, livestock and poultry producers from competition on lands other farmers diverted from cotton and other major crops.

The amendment went through with the support of northern Democrats and Republicans, but over the vehement protests of legislators from the south, who implied it was intended to check the growth of the dairy industry there.

Reynolds Sees Fight.
"Those in the galleries know that there is a fight going on here between the north and the south," said Senator Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina. "If this amendment is adopted it will be manifestly unfair to the south."

Senator Bankhead, Democrat,
Alabama, said with emotion:
"It makes me sick at heart; so many provisions of legislation are

WARDEN BELIEVES MEN 'OFF ISLAND'

Officials Doubt Pair Could Reach Mainland Without Aid of Boat or Raft in Their Flight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—
(AP)—Two long-term convicts vanished today from supposedly escape-proof Alcatraz island federal penitentiary, apparently staking their lives on an attempt to swim a mile and a quarter to shore through cold, fog-shrouded waters.

No prisoner ever has been known to escape from the dreary
San Francisco bay island by swimming, although trained distance swimmers, accompanied by boats, have crossed the rough, tide-swept channel in tests.

Warden James A. Johnston, completing a search of the grounds at 6 p. m., said he believed the men were "off the island."

Hunt Mobilized.
Federal, state and city officers mobilized quickly to hunt for the pair, Ralph Roe, 29, Duncan, Okla., and Theodore Cole, 23, Stroud, Okla., on the theory they had reached the bay from the rocky prison site, but hours afterward no trace of them had been found.

Roe was serving 99 years for robbery of a national bank in Oklahoma in 1935 and Cole was serving a 50-year term for the kidnaping of James Rutherford, near Cushing, Okla., in 1934.

"The prisoners were counted at 1 p. m.," said Warden Johnston,
"and again at 1:30 when Roe and Cole were found to be not at work. Somehow, in that half hour they disappeared into a fog which made it nearly impossible to see any distance."

"They worked in a shop building at the west end of the island, pointing toward the Golden Gate.
We found two lights in a nickel window sash broken. This would have given them access to a ledge, but not to the shore, which they reached by climbing down at some other point."

No Demonstration.
The warden said there was no demonstration among the other nearly 300 prisoners, comprising the government's worst prisoners.

Various officials expressed doubt the pair could reach the mainland without the aid of a boat or raft, yet nevertheless a strong police patrol was posted along the San Francisco shore.

So dense was a low-lying fog that coast guard and police boats were seriously hampered in searching for the men, one serving 99 years for bank robbery, the other 50 years for kidnaping.

The police launch D. A. White halted its search at dark when visibility was reduced to less than

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)— Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Re-inherited some twenty million dollars of the great fortune founded by F. W. Woolworth, the 5-and-10-cent store man, has re-to become a subject of Denmark.

Announcement of her action was made late today by the law firm

The Countess, who is 27, was married in May, 1935, in Reno, to Danish Count Court Haugwitz-here and sought two others fol-

a nude woman in a room on the seventh floor of the Fort Pitt

The body was identified by po-

Pittsburgh. There were no marks on the body that would indicate she met with foul play. Although an autopsy was perform-death was undetermined.

'Robinsons' Believed Under Arrest In Soviet Russia; Mystery Deepens

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Izvestia, organ of the Soviet government, indicated today a missing man and woman with American passports had been arrested on suspicion of espionage.

While the newspaper refrained stating definitely the mysterious
"Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson, of New York, were under arrest," it said "measures have been taken" to arrest them.

This was interpreted in American circles to mean they had been under arrest since their disappearance and were being questioned. Robinson was reported missing by his wife on December 2 and a week later she dropped from sight.

The Izvestia announcement only served to deepen the mystery, saying Mrs. Robinson was quoted as saying they had been in the Soviet union three times.

The Soviet authorities were reported to have questioned the validity of the Robinson passports when American officials first made representations concerning their disappearance.

This led American circles to suspect that from the beginning Russian officials had known more than American officials about the couple and the means by which they had obtained their passports.

The real identity and nationality of the pair remained undisclosed.

(Federal agents in New York, investigating fraudulent means by which the passports were obtained, worked on a theory the "Robinsons" were agents of an American Communist group opposed to the present regime in Russia.)

Izvestia published a dispatch from New York saying the American inquiry was made without evidence "the Robinsons were were in the United States prior to their departure for the U. S.
S. R."

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(P)—France's people's front government today sought to arbitrate a series of stay-in strikes that was interfering with the rush season of Christmas shopping.

Art Pay Held Up; He Lacks Funds To Hang Works

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—When (and if) the new postoffice at Bellevue, Ohio, displays the mural "Ohio," Paul Meltner, 31-year-old Washington Square artist, will start eating regularly again.

But, as it is—? Meltner jingled a handful of money, then spread the coins out on a table. They were two quarters, two dimes and two nickels.

"There," he said, "you see the total Meltner capital. I'm in, definitely, a jam. It's a government contract, and the contract says I'll be paid when the mural is installed. And it can't very well be installed if I don't install it, and I haven't enough money to go out there to do the work."

He showed two letters which arrived yesterday. One was from the Paris exposition, saying his "Man and Machinery" was to be exhibited in the French capital for the second year as representative of American art. The other was a request from the Syracuse (N. Y.) museum for a painting recently displayed in the Whitney museum. He has eight paintings on permanent display in the Brooklyn museum and others hanging permanently in the Museum of Modern Art of New York, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Dayton (Ohio) Art Institute, the Houston (Texas) Museum of Fine Arts.

AND JURY STUDIES ELLIS HEALTH LAW, SCHOOL SYSTEMS

Members Refuse To Intimate What Decision Reached on Either Subject.

Fulton county grand jury met yesterday in special session to consider proposed local application of Ellis health law and to discuss and county school systems. The jury want to get a working picture of the school systems and the health law, Foreman R. H. White said. "In order to get information for special presentations December 31."

and jurors would not intimate what decision had been reached regarding either subject or what the nature of the presentations would be.

Sutton Testifies.
Ellis Sutton, city school superintendent, and Jere Wells, county superintendent, appeared before the jury as special witnesses on school systems.

The Ellis law, enacted in 1933, gives the State Board of Health to take over jurisdiction of each county health board on approval of two successive grand juries of that county. The Fulton grand jury approved the measure.

Opposition Voiced.
Opposition to local approval, which would mean the abolition of the Fulton Board of Health, as a separate entity, has been voiced by county officials and members of the county commission.

Witnesses on the measure yesterday were Wells, Harold Sheets, county attorney, several physicians, and a number of women.

Further discussion was had yesterday of a recently inaugurated campaign to rid the city of crime. The jury will again today in regular session for routine indictments and has indicated the matter would receive attention at that time.

2000 Volts Knock Out
Radio Policeman Here

An Atlanta police operator yesterday was knocked unconscious for 15 minutes when he touched a 2,000-volt electric wire while repairing a transmitter but used to leave his post when he was jolted.

Richard A. Alford was talking with Louisville police over the department radio when the transmitter poles suddenly came down, he contacted the live wire, fell about 10 feet to the roof of the police station.

Regaining consciousness about minutes later, he found his hands were paralyzed. Dragging himself into the control room, he called for assistance.

Chief Hornsby suggested Alford take the remainder of the shift off. Alford refused; went home for supper and returned to his post.

Women's Clubs Urge Georgia Dish for Yule Dinner

A Georgia pudding, served with hard sauce, will be a high light for your Christmas dinner.

THREE MEALS A DAY HOME TESTED RECIPES BY Sally Sawyer

"Use of home products is a mark of patriotic pride and thankful appreciation of the many good things God has given us through Georgia's resources and the production of its lands," is the opinion expressed by Mrs. James R. Little, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, who urges all Atlanta housewives to use Georgia products for the Christmas festivities.

Miss Fern Snyder, chairman of Georgia products for the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, planned a Christmas dinner menu featuring Georgia products.

For many years it has been the purpose of the Atlanta federation and all Georgia clubwomen to use and commend for use the fine products of Georgia farms and streams, using her seafoods, dairy products, vegetable oils and Georgia-grown meats. Peaches, pecans and other nuts which are grown in Georgia are among the best grown anywhere and constant effort toward improvement in quality of all food products is being made.

In further recognition of the high quality and use of Georgia products, Miss Snyder has been a prominent worker. Her knowledge of foods and special interest in use of Georgia products has placed her among leading authorities on this subject in the state. As chairman for the Atlanta federation she offers her help to clubs also and urges co-operation of every clubwoman in carrying forward the slogan, "Use Georgia Products."

"Let us not forget nor throw away our birthright," Mrs. Little urges, "nor neglect to use the rich substance the good earth has brought forth for us to our very doors."

pounds sugar, 1 cup water.

Select bright fruit with a thick peel. Wash carefully. Grate lightly on an ordinary grater to break the oil cells. Cut the peel in quarters and remove from the fruit and weigh. Cut the peel into strips about 1-2 inch in width, or it may be cut into fancy small shapes. Place in a sauce pan with sufficient cold water to cover. Boil rapidly for 10 minutes and pour off the water. Repeat this until the bitter flavor is removed as is desired. Dry the peel between folds of cloth. For each pound of peel used add 1 1-2 pounds sugar to 1-2 cup water. Bring to a boil and boil until sugar is dissolved. Add the prepared peel and boil until the syrup is absorbed and the fruit is transparent. Remove immediately from the fire and roll in granulated or powdered sugar.

Three cups sugar, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1 cup water 2 cups shelled pecans.
Boil sugar, syrup and water together until it spins a thread using vanilla, orange or maple to flavor. Drop in nuts and stir until they separate.

One of the leases now before city council is that of the Philadelphia Gas Works Company. The other lease is sponsored by John T. Cunningham, of Rixford, Pa., a natural gas operator.

Annual Report Reveals City

Collected $2,130,734 in 1937 Period.

A $279,416.50 increase in total water collections by the city for 1937 over 1936 was revealed yesterday in the annual report of the Atlanta waterworks.

Cash receipts for 1937—through

November 30—amounted to $2,130,734 while collections last year was submitted at the regular meeting of the water committee of city council yesterday afternoon.

alone amounted to $2,085,951.57 as compared with $1,806,537.13. For tapping service the city this year

collected $42,714.33, against $38,915

in 1936. Miscellaneous collections dropped slightly this year,

Mrs. Roosevelt

Is Urged To Run

For U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—

Miss Earlene White, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, suggested today that Mrs. Franklin

Roosevelt would make an able senator.

In a radio broadcast with Mrs.

Roosevelt and Mrs. Eleanor Patterson,

Washington newspaper publisher, Miss White said she hoped her two fellow speakers would run for the senate.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who made no

the discussion on women in public office with a hope that "women will translate whatever knowledge they have of human beings into their government's service."

Mrs. Roosevelt disagreed with

Mrs. Patterson's statement, as an executive, that women inherently do not make very good executives.

All women need for that, Mrs.

Roosevelt said, is experience and its resultant knowledge.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(P)—France's Indo-China armies today completed extensive maneuvers in the region of Vinh, directly west of the Chinese island of Hainan, which Japan has reported as having threatened to occupy.

Dispatches from Hanoi confirmed that thousands of native troops, commanded by General Jules Buhner, chief of Indo-Chinese armies, maneuvered for two days in the Vinh region.

Persistent reports, denied by

Machine Gun Attacks on Panay Stiffen U. S. Demands on Japan

the Panay, and Secretary Atchson, of the American embassy in China.

State Department officials did not hide their feeling that the official message mentioned by Hull had given the situation a more serious aspect.

Many persons here felt the message indicated that the "manifest mistake" excuse in the Japanese note could not be validated.

Officials said this did not necessarily imply knowledge and deliberate action on the part of the Tokyo government, since the Japanese military organization in China seemed to operate on its own responsibility, subject only to the high command in Tokyo, which in turn was subject to the Emperor and not to the civil government.

The aggravation of the Panay affair may delay the Japanese reply to Secretary Hull's demands for apology, indemnification and guarantees several days. It was felt at the State Department that Japan would wait until the United States had presented the additional information shortly forthcoming and until Tokyo had received a full report of the incident from its own officials.

The State Department acknowledged that the recall of Japanese Rear Admiral Teizo Mitsunami, in charge of the naval air operations on the Yangtze, was a gesture in the right direction. What the department is chiefly interested in, however, is obtaining adequate guarantees for the future.

JAPANESE PREPARE ENTRY INTO NANKING

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Dec. 17.—(Friday)—Japan's army and navy commanders today prepared for a triumphant entry into China's fallen capital, Nanking, while Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, somewhere in the interior, broadcast this message to the Chinese nation:
"We must not surrender."

A little cortege of American, British and Japanese gunboats, bearing the dead, wounded and survivors from Sunday's sinking of the United States gunboat Panay and destruction of three Standard Oil vessels, was on the last lap of its voyage to Shanghai.

The American Oahu, British Bee and Japanese Hodzu anchored last night off the Kiangyin boom, 90 miles east of Nanking, expected to steam at daylight for Shanghai, where they were due late today.

BRITAIN CONSIDERS SENDING MORE WARSHIPS

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(P)—The British government tonight was reported considering reinforcing its naval forces in the far east as a means of stopping Japanese attacks on British vessels.

The cabinet considered the question yesterday and some newspapers said the minister decided the easing of the Mediterranean situation now would permit substantial naval reinforcements in the orient.

While the government was said to be waiting to see what the United States intended to do in the crisis brought about by Japanese attacks on British and Japanese ships Sunday, a movement was reported under way among members of the house of commons to urge dispatch of more warships to Chinese waters.

JOHN G. HARDIN DIES; GAVE AWAY RICHES

Philanthropist Began in Dugout, Later Amassed Oil Millions.

DALLAS, Dec. 16.—(P)—John G. Hardin, 83-year-old philanthropist, whose first home in Texas was a dugout with a wagon sheet for a door, died here today.
Doctors blamed a complication of ailments which sent him nine months ago to Baylor hospital, one of the beneficiaries of his $5,000-000 philanthropy.

At death his vast fortune, sprung from the fabulous days of the Burkburnett oil boom, had dwindled, as he carefully planned, to $100,000.

Only in the last decade did Mr.
Hardin set out to give away his fortune. Then, in startling succession, Baptist institutions, civic enterprises and hospitals received huge sums, until, in the last year of his life, he could not quote the amounts.

CONGRESS SPEEDS TOWARD HOUSING

Consideration in House Saturday To Be Urged by Steagall.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(UP)— Congress today spurred toward early consideration government plans to promote a multi-billion-dollar national housing program, pillar of President Roosevelt's drive to combat the current business slump by stimulating the heavy goods industries.

The house banking and currency committee reported favorably amendments sought by the President to broaden and relax provisions of the housing act, and

Chairman Henry B. Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, announced he would press for consideration Saturday. He predicted passage before the end of the special session.

Chief amendment to the bill provided that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may invest capital up to $50,000,000 in national mortgage associations, which would be formed under Title III of the act.

day in a hospital here.

The body will be taken this morning to Pine Bluff, under the direction of Awtry & Lowndes, for funeral services and burial.

Other survivors are a son, Dr.
E. A. Payne, and a daughter, Mrs.
B. S. DuRad, both of Pine Bluff.

F. D. R. ASKS CHANGE IN SOCIAL SECURITY

President Lists Six Revisions To Improve Effectiveness of Act.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended today prompt enactment of six amendments to the Social Security Act which he described as "non-controversial."

In letters to Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee and Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, the President said the amendments "will considerably improve the effectiveness of this important (social security) act."

The President submitted a memorandum summarizing the proposed amendments as follows:

"1. To pay death claims direct to the wife or dependent children and save expense of probating estates—as in veterans' laws. This would save real money to the widow and to the board.

"2. To change 'wages payable' in unemployment compensation to 'wages paid' as in old-age insurance and permit a duplicate list of wage payments and so complete our efforts to greatly simplify employers' wage reports.

Merit Rating.
"3. To enable 'merit rating' to work by making technical changes. It becomes effective in Wisconsin January 1, 1938.

(Social security officials said this change would permit unemployment compensation taxes to be levied at varying rates, depending upon the steadiness of work an employer gave his employees. They said, for instance, that an employer who gave 300 men steady jobs for a whole year might pay a lower rate of tax than one who employed varying numbers of workers irregularly.)

Earlier Payment.
"4. To permit earlier payment of unemployment compensation in states that passed their laws late. For two years funds have been built up in these states. With increasing unemployment this will get money earlier to those laid off.

"5. To permit persons now 60 and over to continue working through 1941 to qualify upon retirement for monthly old-age annuities instead of receiving small lump sum payments. A great gain all around.

"6. To increase coverage (A) to seamen on American vessels, x x (B) to employees of national banks, state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System, institutions that are members of the home loan bank system, and the like. x x x The American bankers association approves."

Faces Revocation of Five-Year Probation

Facing possible revocation of a five-year probation sentence suspension, Clayton Hall was fingerprinted in Fulton tower yesterday by Deputy Sheriff K. M. Hubbard as he awaited a hearing Saturday before Judge E. E. Pomeroy. Hall was transferred from the Cobb county jail yesterday.

LOTTERY 'BIG SHOT' FACES CHAIN GANG

Hearing on Revocation of Sentence for Clayton Hall Set Tomorrow.

Clayton Hall, convicted lottery "big shot," was transferred to Fulton Tower from Cobb county jail yesterday to await a hearing at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, when he must show cause why suspension of his five-year sentence should not be revoked.

Superior Court Judge E. E. Pomeroy ordered the hearing after a conference with Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews in which evidence was offered of Hall's violation of the conditions of his suspension.

B. P. Coker and F. K. Stephens, special investigators from the solicitor's office, brought Hall from Cobb county jail where he was held on charges of driving while drunk, speeding and attempted bribery. He is being held without bond at the Tower pending the hearing.

Hall was one of 21 "bug men" who pleaded guilty October 22 in superior court and were given fines and five-year suspended sentences. All promised to refrain from future criminal activities.

If Hall's suspension is revoked it will be the third of the 21 to be so handled. Byron Shaw is serving a five-year sentence on the chain gang and C. J. Hazlebrigg is being sought for service of a similar term.

TO FLEE PRISON ALCATRAZ ISLE; S. SPURS SEARCH

Way Discovered as Officers Make Routine Noon Checkup.

et, but several coast guard continued to circle the island cruise out toward the Golden where there was a strong tide.

Boats Follow Plane.

Washington, Director of Federal Prisons James V. Bennett disclosed that the coast guard vessels operating in accordance with plans worked out for just an emergency.

arden Johnston said he did believe either of the men had been able to arrange outside escape, and he said it was unlikely they had fled in a speedboat.

Within a short time after the disappearance, and before they had reached any shore, all district law enforcement officers were notified by tele-permitting officers to establish a ring virtually around the island.

Garden Attacked Recently.

arden recovered only from head injuries inflicted on a disgruntled convict attacked him in the prison dining hall.

On September 24 Burton Philbrick, a bank robber, was shot in the back by a guard at Alcatraz, Kan., beat Warden Johnston severely before being killed.

Warden at the time had released some 100 convicts who staged a "strike."

"Scarface" Capone, former gang leader, is among the convicts confined on the island.

The first uprising on the rocky island took place in January, 1936, when more than 100 prisoners broke out of their cells.

Because of stringent rules, guards quickly put the prisoners in dungeons and others, bread and water diets, returned to their jobs in the establishments.

OFFICIALS REVEAL PRISONERS ARE MISSING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Federal officials announced today that two prisoners, Ralph J. Duncanson, 29, of Dunbar, Okla., and John Cole, 23, of Stroud, Okla., were missing from the escape-proof prison on Alcatraz island, San Francisco harbor.

The men's absence was discovered today when officials of the institution made a routine check-up.

A heavy fog, which enveloped the island prison all day, hampered the search.

Coast Guard Joins Search.

Coast guard officials and other law enforcement agencies were called to lend all possible assistance in capturing the men.

They were convicted early in 1935 of robbing a national bank in Oklahoma and sentenced to serve 10 years.

He had a long criminal record and previously had served time in the Oklahoma penitentiary.

Federal sentence was imposed on the men on the same day they were taken to Alcatraz.

He was confined first at Leavenworth penitentiary, but on October 3, 1935, was transferred to the other prisoners to Alcatraz.

He was serving a 50-year sentence for kidnapping James Ruthledge on December 5, 1934, near Tulsa, Okla., and carrying him across state lines into Illinois.

He was taken to the same prison from Leavenworth to Alcatraz.

Cole Habitual Criminal.

James V. Bennett, director of federal prisons, described Cole as a habitual criminal and said he had been previously convicted in Oklahoma penitentiary by concealing himself in a laundry basket.

While escaping from the Oklahoma institution, Bennett added Cole kidnapped Rutherford.

Justice Department records show that up to now no federal prisoners have successfully escaped from Alcatraz island.

High cliffs that ring the island, fast-running currents and cold weather have impeded them. The warden's attempts always have ended in failure.

Director Bennett voiced belief that the men were still on the island. The heavy fog, he pointed out, would make it possible for them to remain in hiding without being detected. He remained close to the island by long-distance phone with Warden James A. Johnston on the island.

Guards Continue Search.

Although the search became difficult when darkness fell over the island, Director Bennett said that the search would continue in every nook and corner of the island.

While small groups of armed guards searched the rocky cliffs, searchlights played up and down the slopes.

Bennett disclosed that coast guard vessels were operating in accordance with previous plans worked out in preparation for just an emergency. Using a carefully worked-out code, the vessels maintained constant contact with the island.

Johnston said it was unlikely they would stop and search for a small craft of suspicious character throughout the night.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS BURIED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16.—Arkansas buried its fifth former governor in two years as George Washington Donaghey lay in state in the rotunda of the state capitol where he served as governor from 1909 until 1913.

Riot at Alcatraz Is Predicted By Ex-Inmate of 'Devil's Island'

The real basic cause of all the misery and unrest at Alcatraz is that men with life and long-term sentences, who will never see outside again, are justly resentful against continual punishment. Regardless of their future intentions or conduct, they have no hope.

The popular conception of Alcatraz is that it is the prison for only the most desperate and incorrigible criminals and gangsters in the United States. This may have been the intention when the prison was established, but actually there are only about 25 so-called "public enemies" at Alcatraz today.

About 70 per cent of the prisoners are men who have been shipped from other federal prisons because technical errors were made in their indictments. If they had access to a lawyer, they could win their release on a technicality. The majority of them are guilty, despite their illegal sentencing, and the government is determined to keep them out of public circulation.

The authorities found far too many men were leaving Leavenworth and Atlanta penitentiaries on writs of habeas corpus. In such institutions there are always inmate lawyers who will send for copies of the prisoners' indictments and judgments, pick out the technical faults and make application for habeas corpus.

To put a stop to this, the men who had the best chance of winning release were shipped to Alcatraz. If one can get a writ filled in a San Francisco court, it is a miracle.

Most of the remaining prisoners are morose and mentally undeveloped. Also there are some who are really sick and in need of medical attention, who made nuisances of themselves in other federal prisons.

The officials at Alcatraz will do everything in their power to prevent a public investigation, for it would surely bring up the case of Joe Bowers, No. 210, shot by a tower guard while attempting to dislodge a gallon tin can from a barred wire fence.

"Attempting to escape" was the official reason given for Bowers' death. This was the first casualty at Alcatraz since its establishment on June 19, 1934. Subsequently the tower guard was promoted.

There have been two open strikes at Alcatraz. The first resulted from the treatment of Jack Allan, No. 209, on January 20, 1936.

He was a consumptive who was transferred from Leavenworth because he had made a nuisance of himself there trying to get medical attention. He weighed only 125 pounds, and his general look of weakness and malnutrition was manifest. He was constantly complaining of stomach trouble.

Began to Moan and Groan.

One night, about 8 o'clock, Allan, whose cell was directly over mine, began to moan and groan in his cell, intermittently calling for a doctor. He kept up his cries until almost midnight.

By that time, the entire cell block was alive to the situation, and the men began to shake their bars, keeping up the monotonous chant, "Doctor, Doctor, Doctor."

About midnight, the guard approached the night lieutenant and asked what was to be done.

"Throw him into the hole," was the reply. "We'll look into this matter in the morning."

Allan was so weak, he had to be carried from his cell. The men thought he was being taken to the hospital, and the cries subsided.

Instead, he was thrown into the "hole"—a dark cell, with a solid steel door, where unruly prisoners are placed for discipline. There is no bed, but an inmate is given two blankets.

At 8 a. m. Allan was carried, doubled up and unconscious, from the hole, and taken to the hospital, where he was immediately operated on for a ruptured colon.

Blood transfusions failed to save his life, and he died soon after.

block was alive to the situation, and the men began to shake their bars, keeping up the monotonous chant, "Doctor, Doctor, Doctor."

About midnight, the guard approached the night lieutenant and asked what was to be done.

"Throw him into the hole," was the reply. "We'll look into this matter in the morning."

Allan was so weak, he had to be carried from his cell. The men thought he was being taken to the hospital, and the cries subsided.

Instead, he was thrown into the "hole"—a dark cell, with a solid steel door, where unruly prisoners are placed for discipline. There is no bed, but an inmate is given two blankets.

At 8 a. m. Allan was carried, doubled up and unconscious, from the hole, and taken to the hospital, where he was immediately operated on for a ruptured colon.

Blood transfusions failed to save his life, and he died soon after.

FORMER U. S. ENVOY TO PARIS ENDS LIFE

John S. Abercrombie Found Hanging in Garage.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—John S. Abercrombie, 63, formerly

American consul in Paris, was found dead today hanging from a rafter in his garage.

A note on a bench beside his hat and coat read: "Good-bye, loved ones. Don't grieve for me. Daddy." The signature was written: "Please give me a very inexpensive funeral. No flowers."

Very modest casket. Burial in our plot.

Mrs. Abercrombie, a trained nurse, said she heard the toppling of an orange crate and two cigar boxes on which her husband apparently had stood as she drove up to the closed garage door upon her return from calling on neighbors. She summoned Arthur Nugent, a neighbor, who found the body.

The widow said her husband had suffered increasing deafness and poor health and had threatened periodically to take his life.

Operation Needed.

Mrs. H. needs an operation. This will help her to regain her health and enable her to earn a living for herself and Ann.

Little Ann must be cared for while the mother is in the hospital and during her period of recovery. Ann must be cared for while Mrs. H. makes that slow uphill fight to regain the strength that is necessary to enable her to work.

Mrs. H. has the courage to make this fight.

Ann is her only interest in life and she is determined to see this healthy little girl grow into womanhood and shape her life along paths that will be brighter than were her mother's.

To know that someone is willing to stand behind her during her bleak days in the hospital, will sustain this courage. She will take up her own battle when she has the strength.

It will take only $20 a month to make this a real Christmas for Ann and Mrs. H.

The child can be cared for in happy surroundings with this small sum and the mother's stay in the hospital shortened by the knowledge that Ann is at least comfortable.

This is Opportunity No. 6, a case to appeal to the small contributors to the Opportunity Fund.

Atlanta Is Lagging.

Atlanta is lagging this year in its small donations to this fund.

It should encourage anyone to know that a dollar or a half dollar gift to this fund meant a Christmas gift to some mother like Mrs. H., whose happiness throughout all of next year can be assured by this gift of $20 a month, made up of the pocket change of all Atlanta.

Send your donations to Hugh H. Trotter, treasurer of the Opportunity Fund, care The Constitution.

Tell him that you want to help Mrs. H. and little Ann. Send him only a few dimes or nickels, but send something that will enable this mother to know that this will be the happiest Christmas since she married more than 10 years ago.

BARBARA GIVES UP U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Reventlow. They have one child, a son, Lance, born in February, 1936.

Through her marriage, a statement of the law firm said, the Countess became a Danish citizen under Danish law, although under American law she retained her American nationality.

Dual Nationality.

"Her dual nationality," the statement said, "has resulted in various legal complications affecting her status as well as that of her child, and she has finally felt obliged, as in the case of numerous other American women similarly situated, to forego her United States citizenship in order to alleviate this anomalous and unsatisfactory situation. She sincerely regrets that these circumstances beyond her control compel the taking of this step."

The law firm explained that the Countess had gone before Federal Judge William Bondy in the federal building yesterday to attest to the fact that she "absolutely and entirely renounces" her citizenship and her allegiance to the land of her birth.

It was all done quickly in a form prescribed by federal law and by nightfall the Countess, who had arrived wholly unheralded from Europe on Tuesday, was back on the North German-Lloyd liner Europa, which had brought her here, to sail back to London, her husband, her son, and the great house they own there.

Ask Christmas Present.

But even as the Europa sailed eastward across the Atlantic, a message went out to the Countess from 160 strikers in three of the 124 Woolworth stores in the metropolitan section.

"Make a Santa Claus possible for 5,000 Woolworth workers," said the strikers. "Will you give your employees a Christmas present by insisting Woolworth management concede a living wage to thousands now existing on starvation wages?"

The Countess, who has spent most of her married life with Count Haugwitz-Reventlow in Europe, returned with him to this country for a 16-day visit in September.

When she came here alone on Tuesday she denied, in answer to questions, that she intended to spend the rest of her days abroad, and remarked that she would return here when she found a suitable place to live.

Places Too Large.

"I have looked at places on Long Island," she said, "but they are all so large."

She came back, she said, to spend Christmas with her father, Franklin L. Hutton, and would return shortly after Christmas to her husband who is in London "to take care of the baby."

Before her marriage to Haugwitz-Reventlow, the Countess had been the wife of Prince Alexis Mdivani, one of the marrying Georgian family. She married the Danish Count the day she divorced Alexis in Reno. A short time later the Prince was killed in a motor accident in Spain.

Giant Gourd Used For Waste Basket

VALDOSTA, Dec. 16.—A giant gourd, measuring four and a half feet around its middle, provides an ample waste basket for Dr. C. O. Templeton.

Dr. Templeton's waste basket is a product of western Lowndes county, between Ousley and Clayville, and was not cultivated. It grew beneath the shelter of a sugar boiling plant and was the only fruit of its vine.

Seed from the unusual gourd, planted last season, produced gourds of about equal size and only one to the vine.

MAE WEST'S TALK BRINGS APOLOGY

'Mistake Will Not Be Made Again,' Says Agency.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—As the protests piled up today, the advertising company responsible for Mae West's Garden of Eden love scene with tall, dark and handsome Don Ameche on the Charlie McCarthy radio hour Sunday night admitted:

"It was a mistake, and we can assure the public at large that the same mistake will not be made again."

The Adam and Eve comedy was innocent enough when read the ordinary way, NBC officials in Hollywood insisted. But the volume of correspondence received after the broadcast indicated it didn't come out of the loudspeakers and into the family circle that way.

HUNT FOR CONVICTS COVERS WIDE AREA

5 Fugitives Believed to Have Switched From Truck to Automobile.

REIDSVILLE, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Search for five fugitives from the state prison farm here spread far and wide across south Georgia today.

Mark Sims, assistant to Warden George Fisher, said concentration of the hunt awaited discovery of the truck the fugitives took from a farm near Boxley and Hazlehurst shortly after their break yesterday, or of a car reported stolen near Jesup today.

The quintet of criminals seized a prison truck and a shotgun from a guard after overpowering him, Sims said, but they abandoned the truck after halting Paul Morris on the Boxley-Hazlehurst road and taking his truck, a pistol, and a small sum of cash.

Auto Switch Hinted.

Morris related that the men, in taking his truck, told him they would take good care of it. Sims said the reported automobile theft near Jesup had not been definitely linked with the convicts, but that officers thought they might have made a switch.

Sims said the searchers felt sure the men were fleeing Jacksonville, Fla.

Meanwhile, in the absence anything "definite" as to the location of the fugitives, Sims said officers were guarding all roads along the Florida border, and police in south Georgia cities and Jacksonville were warned to be alert.

Convicts Who Fled.

Chairman G. A. Johns, state prison commission, listed convicts as J. P. Barnes, 33-35 years for burglary; I. Croker, two sentences of years for burglary and larceny; S. E. Dutton, 3-5 years for larceny of an automobile; and Pratt, 1-5 years for burglary.

CARDENAS SEEKS CURE ON THEFTS OF POWER

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—President Lazaro Cardenas sent to congress a bill to stop individual thefts of power so spread the Mexican Light Power Company announced would accept no new customers after January 1.

Company officials estimate thefts—usually by a hidden cutting out the meter—amount to 250,000,000 kilowatt hours a year, almost one-fourth the current generated.

The Cardenas bill provided ranging from five pesos ($1.25) to 25,000 pesos ($5,000) and three to five days in prison based on amount of current stolen.

RIVERS SIGNS $2,000 EXEMPTION BILL

LOWER CHAMBER VOTES FOR RECESS

spite the stern opposition of a number of senators.

But while the administration was walking home with the home-stead exemption plan it met with another reverse in the house. Speaker Harris went on the floor to sound out the membership on the bills it thought worth considering, asserting that if they did not have marked support there was no need for considering them.

Object to Plan.

A number of representatives objected to the speaker's plan of polling the membership and after an unsuccessful effort, he abandoned it.

The recess resolution was offered by Representative Evans, of McDuffie county, an anti-administration leader. As drawn, however, it provided for the recess to begin this afternoon and continue to January 3.

Representative Preston, of Bulloch county, sought to amend the recess resolution to provide for payment of the per diem during the period but the house voted this down. Leaders were of the opinion, however, that members may begin this afternoon and continue to January 3.

The home-stead exemption bill was the only measure of importance upon which enactment was completed during the day. After the skirmish over recess, the house went into the administration-sponsored classification of intangibles. Speaker Harris, who is leading the fight for this bill, said he expected it to reach a vote today.

Issues Statement.

Governor Rivers issued a statement with the signing of the exemption bill pointing out its benefits to the taxpayers. It is the second exemption bill signed during the week, the chief executive having approved a $300 personal property exemption earlier in the week. While the home-stead bill does not apply to city taxes or to city school taxes the $300 personal property exemption applies to all taxes.

In the statement issued as he signed the bill, Governor Rivers said:

"I want to thank the members of the general assembly for standing true to the will of the people of this state in passing this home exemption measure in the full amount of $2,000, as voted for by the people on June 8. This general assembly has proven itself worthy of the trust of the people of Georgia and has done more to advance the interest of the masses of our people than any general assembly that has ever met beneath the dome of this state capitol in any era. I cannot praise them too highly."

Real Santa Claus.

"The exemption of owner-occupied homes up to $2,000 and of household and kitchen furniture, domestic animals and tools of trade of manual labor up to $300, gives a real tax revision and tax relief to citizens of this state who need it most. It is a real Christmas present to them. The general assembly by the passage of these enabling acts, carrying out the vote of the people on June 8th, has proven a real Santa Claus to our people. These two exemption measures alone more than justify this session of the assembly. By these two measures the general assembly is taking off of our people $7,000,000 in taxes. As a general rule, the relief given through taking off these taxes to the people in the lower income brackets, who are the most in need. In addition to being a great progressive step in tax revision these exemption measures will bring a great boost in home building, home ownership and home pride. Owner-occupied homes are greater bulwarks of defense against enemies, within and without, than the largest standing armies we can put afield, navies we can float upon the seas, and planes we can sail aloft."

"With these exemptions as a basis we expect to co-operate with the Federal Housing Administration to put on a real home building program and campaign in Georgia, and I call upon all the people of this state to co-operate to this important end."

"There will be those who have bitterly opposed these exemption measures who will try to defeat the people getting the full value of them through arbitrary raising assessments. I want the people of Georgia to be on guard against such tactics. There are a few officials who, in order to get money to spend, would squeeze the last blood dollar out of the last bedstead, the last pot and pan, and the last doorstep of the little home. I thank God there are only a few such."

"The constitutional amendment that was passed says: 'Such value to be determined in such manner and according to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law.' In other words, the people left it up to the legislature to prescribe the manner of determining the value of the exemptions. The legislature in the enabling act declares: 'It is the legislative intent that property subject to ad valorem taxation hereafter shall be valued and assessed for taxation substantially as heretofore...'

In other words, it is the intent of the legislature that in fixing the $2,000 value that it be based on tax values as heretofore. In other words, if it has been customary to assess property in a county at 40 per cent values, or 50 per cent values, or 60 per cent values, then that basis shall be used in assessing the $2,000 value of the home exemption. This being the intent of the legislature expressed and written into law, as authorized by the constitutional amendment, I trust that the tax receivers, tax commissioners and tax assessors of the state will co-operate to see that the exemptions are set aside on the basis as prescribed by the general assembly and that the people get the full benefit of the exemptions they have voted for and that the general assembly has expressly provided they get."

Enabling Act Provision.

"There is one provision in the enabling act in which the exemption is sought to be denied to the home-owner from independent school taxes. Frankness compels me to point out the exact wording of the constitutional amendment and the enabling act. The enabling act states: 'Beginning January 1, 1938, there shall be exempted from all ad valorem taxation for state, county and school purposes the home-stead of each resident of this state, actually occupied by the owner as a resident and home-stead to the value of $2,000.' The wording of the constitutional amendment is such that I do not believe it legal for independent school systems to levy a tax on these homes."

"I make this statement for two reasons: First, I want the home-owner to get every bit of tax relief which under the constitutional amendment is entitled to get; and, second, because I do not want any member of the legislature to find in the end that something they may have relied upon to help finance their independent schools may be denied them. I trust this statement I make about this feature of the bill will be accepted by all concerned in the spirit in which it is made; so that all parties having notice of my construction of it may use such diligence as they see proper to assert or protect their respective rights."

"There are only two exceptions to the complete exemption of owner-occupied homes as I construe it: The one is the home located inside of the municipality is subject to municipal taxes and the other is the home is still subject to pay interest on and retire bonded indebtedness."

"Where I have always felt that we should exempt homes up to $5,000 in value and household and kitchen furniture, domestic animals and tools of trade up to $500, I know that the exemptions in the amounts now set up will give great relief to our people who most need tax relief and is a great forward step in tax revision."

Signs With Pleasure.

"I, therefore, take pleasure in signing this home exemption bill just as I have already signed the $300 personal property exemption bill."

Before finally accepting the home-stead bill, the senate engaged in a sharp debate on a motion by Senator Harrison, of Millen, to postpone action indefinitely. The Harrison motion obtained only two votes.

Senator Millican, of Atlanta, suggested that the senate postpone final action from day to day until it saw what revenue measures were coming over from the house to help the counties retrieve funds lost through the exemption plan. This also was rejected. Likewise, a motion by Senator Harrell, of Lumpkin, to table the bill was lost.

Various estimates have been placed on the amounts to be saved to the counties through the exemption plan. It is estimated that about $1,750,000 will be lopped off the state's income from ad valorem taxes.

Some estimates place the savings to taxpayers in county, municipal and county school taxes as high as $2,500,000.

Same Assessments.

The measure provides that assessments of property shall be substantially the same as they are this year. Any household seeking the exemption must pay a fee of 50 cents for the application. The act specifically provides that a municipality may continue to levy taxes for the operation of an independent school district. Valuation of property shall be upon a basis of law, which was described as market value. At present, counties are said to value homes and farms at about 40 per cent of their value. Appeals from county assessments are to be made to the superior courts in those counties which do not have tax appeal boards.

Although the pre-vote skirmishing in the senate was marked by sharp debate, it was mild compared with the storm in the house. After Evans had spoken in support of his resolution, Speaker Harris asked all members to take their seats and sent into the corridors for absentees.

"I am going to take a poll and try to determine the policy to be followed by the house during the remainder of this session," Harris said.

He reviewed action of the session so far, explaining he had asked for passage of the beer bill and the tax stabilization bill so that, regardless of what else happens, the session would not be a failure.

Crocodile Tears.

Harris said he adopted this policy because he knew there would be the usual opposition to tax measures and that "crocodile tears" would be shed if any tax increases were sought.

"I believe," Harris said, "that there was a minority in the house favoring a gross income tax, a general sales tax, a soft drink tax or a measure to increase the gas tax, but I believe that a majority of the house was against this legislation."

"We ought to determine here and now where we're going. If a majority of the house is not ready to stand behind one of these tax bills, we should go ahead with the few important measures now pending, work day and night, and adjourn by next Thursday night."

Harris then explained that he was going to take a poll of the house by asking the members to rise and indicate their position on various tax proposals. This poll, he said, would be recorded by the house clerk.

"We are not going to be put on the spot in any such manner," Representative Jones, of Bartow county, told the speaker. "It is not fair to ask us to commit ourselves to bills when we don't know what is in them."

"These bills I speak of have been here for weeks," the speaker said, "and the members of this house had a chance to study them."

"The trouble is," Jones replied, "that almost every bill is completely rewritten in the form of a substitute and we don't know what will be in the substitutes."

Speaker Harris told the house that the post road measure now pending would provide $1,500,000 to take care of county roads now being maintained by the counties, and that 3,000 more miles of road could well be added to the system, thus taking additional maintenance burdens off the counties.

Poll on Proposals.

Getting down to the poll on various proposals, the speaker said a general sales tax of 1 per cent, exempting necessities, would raise about $2,000,000, and that each additional one cent of such a tax would bring in another $2,000,000.

"The intangibles tax bill now pending will bring in more than we think," he said, "and the counties will get considerable relief through allocation of this revenue."

Then the speaker enumerated the tax bills one at a time and asked the members to hold up their hands if they would agree to support any or all of them.

A dozen members voiced vigorous objection to being polled on any of the proposed tax bills and there was considerable commotion in the house, as most of the legislators refused to vote one way or the other on any of the questions.

Senator Joe Burgin, of Buena Vista, jubilant at the passage by the senate, 42 to 4, of his celebrated "home rule" bill yesterday, predicted last night the house would give its approval and send the proposed constitutional amendment to the people for acceptance or rejection.

The measure, introduced by Senator Burgin at each legislative session since 1925, would amend the state constitution to ban local bills and bills of local application from the general assembly and substitute instead a general law which would allow counties and municipalities to prescribe their own local statutes.

"It would in no way interfere with general legislation," Burgin said. "In fact, it would help to concentrate attention to this phase of the assembly's work. Under the present system, 75 per cent of the bills we pass are local in nature."

Claims Agreement.

Senator Burgin said Speaker Harris "has agreed with the bill in principle," and added he had been assured the measure would receive favorable house action.

Speaker Harris, however, said later in an interview:

"The Burgin bill, instead of correcting a bad situation, makes it worse and creates at least 1,000 little legislatures in Georgia. I believe the nuisance of local bills and local legislation could be done away with by adoption of a uniform system of local government throughout the state, giving each unit of county and municipal government power to govern its affairs."

Senator Burgin emphasized the constitutional amendment would not change the present system unless the assembly subsequently adopted enacting legislation. He said at least a score of states have already adopted similar measures, and cited Arkansas as an example.

The bill awaits house action. Burgin said it passed the senate in 1927, but did not receive favorable consideration in the other legislative branch.

Committee Postpones Action on Fee Bill.

Representative Theo Coleman, of Lowndes county, said yesterday the house committee on the state of the republic is withholding action on a bill providing a fee for employment of a state intangible tax investigator "until it could be determined whether the subject was within the Governor's call."

Coleman, chairman of the committee, in a written statement also announced a charge that a hearing was denied to G. Seals Aiken and a group Wednesday night at a meeting of the committee.

In a resolution made public today, Aiken protested alleged exclusion of a committee from the Georgia Taxpayers' Relief Association during two hearings by the state of the republic committee. The resolution said the group was on one occasion ordered to leave the committee room by Chairman Coleman.

Aiken led court action to pre-

WOMAN IDENTIFIES SUSPECT'S PICTURE

Youth Ordered Arrested in Slaying of Widow.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Miss Mary Griffin, 22-year-old widow to the murder of Mrs. Wilma V. Carpenter last Monday, positively identified a rogues-gallery photograph of Wendell Forrest Bowers, 19-year-old former inmate of the Huntington reformatory for boys, as the killer. District Attorney Frederick B. Smilie, announced tonight. Smilie ordered the immediate arrest of the youth.

The blonde 38-year-old widow was shot in the bedroom of her fashionable Camp Hill home just outside Philadelphia. Miss Griffin, who lived with her, said the killer later tied her to a bed and tried to attack her.

MORE WARM WEATHER PREDICTED FOR ATLANTA

Warmer weather will continue in Atlanta again today with a possibility of rain, the weatherman forecast yesterday.

"Skies will be mostly cloudy and there is a possibility of showers," the weatherman said as he announced a low temperature reading of 56 degrees for this morning. The mercury yesterday ranged between 50 and 68 degrees.

Storm warnings were issued yesterday along the gulf coast from Galveston to Carrabelle, Fla., with indications of squally weather and winds increasing possibly to gale force. The Texas disturbance is responsible for the unsettled weather here, the weather bureau announced.

SOLOMON'S MAIDEN SPEECH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Senator Miller, Democrat, Arkansas, delivered his maiden speech today and conferred with the President regarding what he termed improper Farm Security Administration appointments in Arkansas.

vent John Armistead, tax investigator, from collecting fees from the state. Last week a three-judge Fulton county superior court declined to act on his petition.

Representative Coleman, in his answer to the Taxpayers' Relief Association resolution, set out that the committee was not consulted concerning the hearing on the bill and that action was deferred when the committee voted in executive session to determine whether it was within the Governor's call. He said Aiken was allowed to debate the point before the vote was taken.

"The statement made by Mr. G. Seals Aiken and others to the effect that a hearing was denied them by this committee, is a malicious misstatement of fact and is absolutely untrue," Coleman asserted.

A proposal which would make former Governor Talmadge eligible for re-election in the next election was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by Representative Evans, of McDuffie.

Indications are that Wednesday, March 9, will be set as the primary date, with entries closing under party rules, at noon February 5.

TARIFF TO AID LINT URGED BY RUSSELL

Senator Criticizes Wallace for Condemning 2-Price Cotton System.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Criticizing Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for condemning a two-price system for cotton, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, today entered a vigorous defense of the Lee amendment to the pending crop control bill, which proposed giving cotton growers of Georgia and the south the same tariff protection afforded big business and industry for the past generation or more.

Although defeated by a better than 2-to-1 vote, the amendment was vigorously supported by both Senator Russell and Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia.

Target of Wallace.
The Lee domestic allotment cotton amendment was one of the targets of Wallace's general assault last night on so-called "price-fixing" provisions of the farm measure. If enacted, it would have guaranteed a fixed parity price payment of 20 cents a pound to cotton farmers on domestically consumed portions of their crop.

"Why," Senator Russell said on the floor of the senate, "we have had a two-price system for everything the cotton farmer buys for more than 100 years; and now, when a two-price system is suggested for cotton, we hear the cry of 'fascism.'"

Secretary Wallace had called allotment plans "price-fixing" programs that might "involve licensing of all businesses who purchase farm products and licensing of all farmers."

"If the situation were utterly desperate," Wallace declared, "it might be all right to do that, but if the situation gets that desperate then you are in the gravest danger of having to take a step toward that which they abroad call fascism, autocracy, etc."

Reasonable Restriction.
Admitting that he was not opposed to some form of reasonable restriction, the junior Georgia senator said he was afraid that if the government continued to cut down cotton production, the farmers were sure to lose what little foreign market they had left.

"We are seeking in the Lee amendment," he insisted, "to apply a tariff system for the benefit of cotton farmers. Yet, we are told we cannot have it because it would be fascism."

"I am sure our cotton farmers would approve a curtailment plan if they were assured a fair return on what cotton they sold. Our present tariff system for the benefit of industry has enriched everyone in the nation except the farmers."

will digest all of us or none of us."

Meantime, in Baltimore, a federal jury decided a sitdown strike aboard ship in a foreign port is mutiny, convicting 14 seamen of the government-owned freighter Algic on both counts of an indictment charging conspiracy and attempt to revolt.

Each count carried a possible maximum sentence of five years imprisonment, $1,000 fine, or both. Defense attorneys said a petition for a new trial would be filed Saturday or Monday.

208 Arrested in Dearborn.
From Detroit came word that police of suburban Dearborn loaded 208 union members into patrol wagons and hauled them to headquarters, breaking up another attempt of the United Automobile Workers to distribute literature to employees of the Ford Motor Company.

Of those arrested, 203 were charged with "obstructing traffic" on Miller road in violation of a Dearborn ordinance and were released.

Labor's Non-Partisan League in Washington last night threw its support behind striking tunnel workers on the $220,000,000 Colorado river aqueduct project in southern California.

Gardner Jackson, spokesman for the John L. Lewis organization, said the league had joined the strikers in an appeal to Jesse H. Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation chairman, to request the metropolitan water district to end "its gross anti-union activity."

Manhattan Island's pre-Christmas rush was bothered by a strike of Woolworth 5-and-10-cent store clerks in three stores, a three-hour "stand-up" of Postal Telegraph Company operators, and threats of a strike among the 14,000 taxicab drivers.

The Monarch of Bermuda sailed from New York last night with only 120 men aboard. The other 280 members of her crew were left behind, striking because of the alleged discharge of 72 seamen and also because the Furness-Bermuda Line, a British company, refused to recognize the Transport Workers' Union (CIO).

Four hundred passengers cancelled reservations at sailing time. The Monarch carried mail and freight.

2ND JURY DISCHARGED IN MCDONALD TRIAL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The circuit court jury which heard the second false pretense trial of former Secretary of State Ed F. McDonald was discharged today by Judge Abner McGehee after it reported it was "hopelessly" deadlocked.

McDonald was charged with having fraudulently obtained a $480 state warrant August 6, 1935, for four drums of soap which were not delivered to the statehouse.

Wage Bill Is Threat To Child Movie Stars

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Some California congressmen said today they detected a threat to the Freddie Bartholomew and Shirley Temples of movie-dom in the administration's wage-hour bill.

Before the house adopted an amendment by Representative Schneider, Progressive, Wisconsin, intended to prohibit the employment of children under 14 in interstate commerce, Representative Dockweiler, Democrat, California, arose and protested. He said it would deprive the public of "the good entertainment" provided by child movie stars.

Another Californian, Representative Voorhis, said, however, theatrical workers could be exempted later and urged:

"The millions of other children."

directed at the section where I live."

After long and bitter debate, the senate refused, 56 to 26, to substitute the idea of Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, for the compulsory cotton control system provided in the bill.

Sees Delay Till January.
Even before it became apparent that the senate debate would continue far into the night, Speaker Bankhead told a press conference he did not expect crop control legislation to be completed until January. It was the first time he had conceded publicly that this lead-off item on the administration's program would not reach the White House during the special session.

Later in the evening, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, succeeded in getting the senate to reduce the penalties which would be imposed on corn and wheat farmers who failed to comply with "marketing quotas."

The penalty for marketing the crops in excess of a farmer's government-fixed quota was reduced from 50 to 25 per cent of "parity prices."

Borah also won approval of a requirement that farmer referendums, conducted to determine whether marketing quotas should be imposed for corn and wheat, be conducted by "secret ballot."

The bill calls for these referenda whenever supplies are large enough to determine if restrictions on sales would be imposed.

Fines Clause Deleted.
On motion of Senator McGill, Democrat, Kansas, the senate deleted a provision for possible fines up to $100 on corn and wheat farmers who failed to keep required records.

Senator Murray, Democrat, Montana, won approval for an amendment which would prohibit reduction in acreage of any type of wheat, if the curtailment would be likely to result in production smaller than domestic requirements.

Off the floor, Murray said this would protect especially "growers of No. 1 northern spring wheat produced in Montana, the Dakotas and other arid states."

By a voice vote the senate rejected an amendment by Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, appropriating $1,000,000 annually for the development of foreign markets for farm products.

Then the senate adjourned for the night without reaching a vote on the control bill itself.

Sees Stronger Draft.
Secretary of Agriculture Wallace indicated a belief tonight that the farm legislation which eventually passes will be "stronger" than the bills now pending in senate and house.

Writing Senator Smathers, Democrat, New Jersey, in response to a query as to the agriculture department's attitude, Wallace said:

"I believe there are many excellent points in both the senate and house drafts of farm legislation and that there will be an opportunity for the conference committee to work out a stronger draft than either."

The senate rejected proposals that the government buy up large quantities of farm products to control surpluses and bolster prices.

An attempt by Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, to have the government go into the market for 6,000,000 bales of cotton to raise prices depressed by the largest crop in history failed, 39 to 26.

When Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, proposed to buy 30,000,000 bushels of wheat, that too was voted down, 48 to 19.

The senators offered their proposals as amendments to the pending farm legislation, which aims to control crops by a system of monetary rewards and penalties.

The house tentatively approved

today an amendment to the wage-hour bill which would eliminate partially the third shift in manufacturing industries.

The amendment would require manufacturers to pay time and a half to workers employed between midnight and 6 a. m. "In all industries where continuous operation is not required," and would prohibit employment of minors during those hours.

Representative Bullwinkle, Democrat, North Carolina, who introduced the provision, and Representative Healey, Democrat, Massachusetts, indicated it was aimed principally at the textile industry.

Bullwinkle said the amendment "would protect legitimate business and prevent chiseling in the cotton textile industry where the third shift is largely prevalent."

In opposition to the amendment, Representative Smith, Democrat, Connecticut, declared it would "curtail production."

Fight Wage Bill.
No Wendland congressmen disclosed during debate that northern cotton textile manufacturers had expressed opposition today to the present wage-hour bill.

A demand that congressmen support the measure was issued tonight by Francis J. Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the CIO.

Gorman urged union members to "exert pressure on local, state and national politicians for an extension of WPA and passage of the wage-hour bill."

After tentatively approving an amendment by Representative Crocker, Democrat, Ohio, to exempt railroad shopmen and maintenance of way employees from the administration bill, the house adjourned for the day without reaching the controversial administrative section.

GIANT MONUMENT IS BOON TO DAKOTA, BORGLUM DECLARES

Georgia Has Exceptional Opportunities To Draw Tourists, Sculptor Says.

By LUKE GREENE.

A stone memorial to four of America's builders — George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt — is boosting South Dakota's tourist trade income to $12,000,000 annually, Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor who started the Stone Mountain memorial to Robert E. Lee, said yesterday as he stopped in Atlanta on a brief visit.

The heads of the four great Americans are being carved on the side of Mount Rushmore, S. D., and the work is now about 80 per cent complete, the sculptor said, as he pointed out the project's economic value to the state.

Gas Sales Jump.

"The great gasoline companies report that their sales have increased 180 per cent, with the result that Governor Jensen is now reconstructing South Dakota's roads from the increased income from gasoline taxes," he said. "From June until September of this year 255,000 people from all parts of the world visited the memorial despite the fact that it is 300 miles off the main tourist route. The traffic has now become such a problem that new lanes are being added to the two highways leading through the mountains to the sculpture."

The sculptor revealed that as many as 1,100 automobiles climbed the mountain in one day, all bearing tourists who wished to view the colossal work.

Lincoln's head was completed this year and unveiled on September 17, the anniversary of the signing of the constitution. The Roosevelt monument will be unveiled next year in celebration of the adoption of the constitution.

"I hope that President Roosevelt will either unveil this sculpture or designate someone to represent him," Borglum said. In 1939, the end of the constitution celebration, the head of Washington will be unveiled, honoring the inauguration of the first President of the United States. The ceremony will take place at night under high-powered lights and will be preceded by a drama illustrating the rise of the democratic form of government. Such widely-known artists as Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore will participate in the drama, Borglum said.

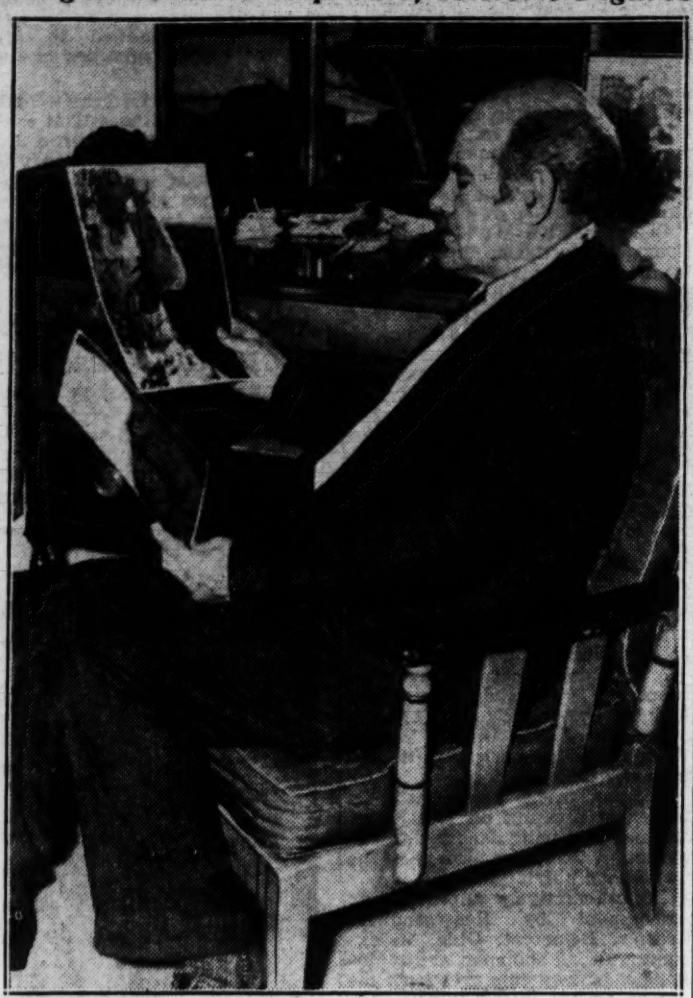

The unveiling of Washington will mark the end of the dedicatory ceremonies, as Jefferson has already been officially honored. Asked if Georgia has any exceptional opportunities for developing its tourist trade, the sculptor replied that it has, since the state is the gateway to Florida and the Gulf states.

Points Out Sites.

Borglum emphasized the fact that tourist trade alone should not be sufficient excuse for constructing large memorials, but that the excuse should lie in the monument itself. He pointed out that Kenesaw Mountain and the Peachtree war route could be converted into worth-while projects that would greatly increase the state's income.

Work has been abandoned temporarily on the Mount Rushmore memorial because of the intense cold. Borglum explained that his men can labor only about five months out of each year because of this fact. Work on the sculpture has been in progress for about 46 months.

Borglum began work on the Stone Mountain project in 1916. He later took up the Mount Rushmore project and during the last 11 months has traveled across the continent five times. He will leave today for his home in Texas.

"The Awful Truth" In Its Fifth Week

Now, at last, a positive and final date for the ending of the record smashing run of "The Awful Truth," at the Rialto theater has been set. It will be Christmas Eve, December 24, one week from tonight. At that time, regardless of popular demand, the feature will have to be withdrawn to make way for the new and sensational, delightful Grace Moore picture, "I'll Take Romance."

"The Awful Truth," when it closes next Friday night, will conclude a run of 36 consecutive days, after setting new box office records. With Irene Dunne and Cary Grant in the leading roles and with Ralph Bellamy heading a splendid supporting cast, it has proved fine entertainment. "I'll Take Romance" is the cleverest picture Miss Moore has yet made. She sings old favorites as

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

REVIEWER PRAISES PLAY AT ERLANGER

'You Can't Take It With You' Is Described as Hilarious.

"You Can't Take It With You" belied its name last night.

For a capacity crowd of first-nighters that trooped out of the Erlanger theater at about 10:45 o'clock, after seeing the Pulitzer prize-winning comedy, took with them memories of one of the most hilarious nights in the history of Atlanta showhouses.

The play was fashioned by those writers, Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, who have given the American stage many previous comedy hits.

Story of Family.

It tells a simple tale of the Sycamore family, as crazy—in a charming sort of way—as a family as ever trod the boards of any theater. The Sycamores believe that happiness comes from doing exactly what each member likes best to do.

So the mother, Penelope, admirably played by Elwyn Harvey, writes plays and paints pictures; her husband, Paul, played by Walter Beck, makes fireworks; with his friend, Mr. DePinna, played by Paul E. Burns, while their oldest daughter, Essie, enacted by Adrienne Earle, attempts to become a second Pavlova, undaunted by eight years of lessons.

Then there is Martin Vanderhof, the lovable grandfather of the group, whose hobby is collecting snakes, visiting the zoo and attending commencement exercises. George Henry Trader, in this role, deserves special praise.

Runs Printing Press.

Of course, there is also Ed, Essie's husband, who likes to rattle off Beethoven on a xylophone and who runs a printing press, too.

The romantic part of the story is carried by Mary Patton, as the Sycamore's youngest daughter, who longs for roast beef, and two vegetables, and dillies, like other, saner families, and Alan Brixey, as Tony Kirby.

Other in the excellent cast, all of whom contribute fine performances, include Robert Perry, who made a small part stand out; Rene Roberti, as the voluble Russian; Dulcie Cooper, as a drunken actress; and Anna Karen, as the Grand Duchess Olga, very regal in spite of her job as a waitress.

Musa Williams and Morris McKinney also carried their roles well.

LEE FUHRMAN.

Barrymore To Star In Capitol Film

When a well-known doctor murders his wife and plants clues to implicate his rival for her affections, he stirs up a cyclone of trouble in the police department and newspapers. John Barrymore is the doctor, and Harvey Stephens is the man he plans to take the blame for his crime, in "Night Club Scandal," which opens a week's engagement at the Capitol theater Sunday.

Others in the cast are Charles Bickford, Lynne Overman, Evelyn Brent, Louise Campbell and J. Carroll Nash.

On the stage the Capitol will offer the special presentation, "The Big Apple Revue," a Dan Fitch production, which offers a large cast of entertainers including dancers from the place where the big apple dance originated.

Big Musical Play At Loew's Grand

During the past two decades Fifty-Second street, New York, has changed from one of the quiet, fashionable thoroughfares of an earlier era to a street famous the world over for its lavish night life. "Fifty-Second Street," which comes today to Loew's Grand theater, employs this dramatic change as the basis of a story of night life and luxurious entertainment.

A cast of film and cabaret entertainers was assembled for this diversion. Ian Hunter, Leo Carrillo, Pat Paterson, Ella Logan, Sid Silvers, Zasu Pitts, Marla Shelton, Dorothy Peterson, Collette Lyons, Kenny Baker and Al Shean, from Hollywood, and Jack White, Rocco and Sautler, Georgia Tappes, Cook and Brown, Jerry Colonna, Al Norman and the "Fifty-Second Street Girls" are united in this lavish and sparkling story.

Eight big musical numbers have been included in "Fifty-Second Street." The film celebrates the history of New York's Montmartre section.

Power and Young On Screen at Fox

Acclaimed by fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweethearts of the screen, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are co-starring in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Second Honeymoon," coming to the Fox theater today. The film is said to be their perfect picture of the year.

There are other stars in the cast, including Stuart Erwin, Claire Trevor and J. Edward Bromberg.

Aherne-De Havilland Film at Paramount

Using for its hero the British actor, David Garrick, a gay comedy of that star and his times is coming to the Paramount theater today with Brian Aherne in the role of Garrick and Olivia De Havilland as Germaine, the girl with whom he falls in love. Garrick in the era of the 1750's was acknowledged to be the greatest actor the world had ever known. He could play anything—comedy, tragedy, or straight drama.

Supporting Aherne and Miss De Havilland are Edward Everett Horton, Melville Cooper, Lionel Atwell, Henry O'Neill, Luis Alberni, Lana Turner, Marie Wilson, Fritz Leiber, Lina Perry and Etienne Girardot. "The Great Garrick," which is neither historical or biographical, but just sheer fun, was written for the screen by Ernest Vajda.

'The Women Coming To the Erlanger

Probably the bathroom scene which opens the second act of "The Women," Clare Boothe's joyous comedy, coming to the Erlanger for two nights and Wednesday matinee, starting Tuesday, December 28, is the most discussed scene in the history of the theater. Except as burlesque, this is the first time that an actress has been called upon to disport herself in a tub in full view of the audience.

Many of the more inquisitive have written to the manager of "The Women," asking how the thick white suds which form a cloak around Miss Celeste Holm's body as she reclines in the tub, are made.

The foam is not soap, as is generally believed. These moving clouds of snow are produced with a chemical product which is claimed to have enormous medical value.

1000 BUDGET STREETS ASKED

City Committee Adopts Resolution Doubling Appropriation for 1938.

Committees to ask the budget and finance committees to double appropriations per ward for street improvements in the city were yesterday by the public committee of city council. The resolution calls for appropriations of $10,000 per ward for the coming year as compared with appropriations for the city's wards last year.

At the same time, the committee called on federal agents in Fulton and DeKalb counties to assume a part of the general improvement program, and a month ago with adoption of a four-point improvement plan by Chairman Lyle, of the public works committee.

The Georgia Power company to abandon street cars on Piedmont avenue and substitute buses serving Morningside and Ansley Park sections.

The public works committee immediately began to plan urging city council to substitute of buses for cars along Highland avenue and boulevard into town.

Part of the Luckie street adopted as follows—from Broad, to Peachtree, to all, to Hunter, back to Walton and thence over present route to the water.

Bill for Inquiry On British Births Causes Hilarity

LONDON.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—“Have you caused a fall in the population?” Such, according to one London wit, is a fair sample of questions the British birth registrar may pose at proud fathers if the government's population statistics bill becomes law.

The bill, designed for a statistical inquiry into Britain's declining birthrate, already has caused nationwide hilarity and some misgivings.

It would compel parents registering births or deaths to tell their age, occupation, date of marriage and previous marriages, the number of children born of each marriage, whether they are legitimate, and the number of the parents' brothers, sisters and dependents.

Many fear it will authorize embarrassing official prying into what goes on within the Englishman's hitherto embattled castle—his home.

The measure has been dubbed the “Nosey Parker” bill.

A nosey Parker, in plain American, is a very nosey guy.

DEFENDANT FREED ON 'BOOKIE' CHARGE

Two Negro Lottery Operators Given Straight Chain Gang Sentences.

Possession of a horse race “dope sheet” and a betting ticket stub were held insufficient evidence to convict on charges of bookmaking yesterday in Fulton criminal court as Judge Jesse M. Wood found F. S. Brown not guilty after a trial without a jury.

City Detectives Crankshaw and King arrested Brown in a room in the Healey building, and contended that possession by him of the “dope sheet” and ticket was evidence that he accepted bets.

The defendant admitted “playing the ponies” himself but denied the bookmaking charge. He pointed out that the information in the “dope sheet” is printed in many newspapers as a matter of sporting information.

At the same session of court, two negro lottery operators were given straight chain gang sentences. Melvin Tuggle, who pleaded not guilty, was sentenced to 12 months. Tyvola Lindsay, who also pleaded not guilty, received four months.

CAFE MEN DISAGREE OVER PRICE OF BEER

Decision Left to Board Despite Recommendation by Association.

Resolutions recommending prices of 13 cents a bottle or two for 25 cents for the old 10-cent bottle of beer and 18 cents or two for 35 cents for the 15-cent bottle, were passed yesterday by the Atlanta Restaurant Association.

However, many members wished the prices fixed at 12 cents and 17 cents despite their agreeing 13 cents and 18 cents would be a “fair” price, J. W. LeBlanc, president, said.

Unable to agree, the members left the “price-fixing” up to the board of directors, who will meet this afternoon, LeBlanc said.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. When Karen Mallare's foster-mother dies she decides to quit her dress shop job and go to New York to realize her ambition to be an actress. Jerry Forbes, who came to Harrington to work in his uncle's bank, begs her to marry him. She asks if he knows her mother, a young actress in a company that disbanded in Harrington, took a midnight train, leaving Karen in a hotel room. John and Betty Mallare adopted the pretty child and cheerfully stunted to keep the pretty child in school and give her singing and dancing lessons. Jerry wishes her luck and says he'll be waiting "if you need me." Her neighbor in New York is blond Roxanne Dell, who sings on a hotel roof. She is hard on the surface but Karen likes her. As Karen is leaving a theater after seeing the famous Brenda Bond in Philip Ashley's play, her handbag containing all her money falls to the lobby, and is kicked about. A handsome man returns it as she waits in the rain for a bus. Her car stops and she answers herself by accepting his invitation to get in. He is Philip Ashley. He takes her to a party to meet Brenda Bond. She hears a woman leaves. Philip apologizes as he drives her home; she knows that she loves him. She goes with Roxanne to her dance Bill McGrath to the hotel where her handbag is found and she meets with her. McGrath disappears from ship. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VII. She pressed her hand over her mouth for a moment. "I told you I couldn't live without him, Karen. Bill was my life. He was my world. He was everything I believed in, everything I was faithful to. After four years of getting nowhere, playing in small towns, singing in cheap night clubs..." Her voice stopped suddenly. "You run along, I'll be okay."

"I don't want to leave you alone now, Roxanne."

"I don't want to live without him," Karen looked at Roxanne gravely. "Bill's parents have got to learn to live without him. They've had him all his life and loved him, too. You belong with his parents now. They need you now. You can't give up as long as somebody needs you, Roxanne. It doesn't take long to get to Richmond and those two older people need you. Let me send them a telegram and pack your bag and see you to the station."

"Do you think..."

"She nodded. "I know!"

"But my job! I'll lose my job."

Several times, the sound of her small blue satin slippers cushioned by the rug, she walked from the sofa to the window. Then she looked back at Karen. "Can you sing? It's not so much singing as putting a song over and making 'em think you feel what you're singing, and mean it. Last Saturday night I sang happy songs because Bill was there. And I was happy." Don't think. Don't remember. You don't dare remember.

Karen frowned as a new panic seized her. "I used to sing at parties in Harrington but I can't... I couldn't..."

"There is a job in it for you if you can. My job. It isn't bad. I hate to lose it. If you take it, you can step out when I get back."

"You will go to Richmond?"

She nodded. "I'll go if you'll see Sam Kasten this afternoon and tell him you'd like to take my place. He'll give you a try-out. He'll give you a chance. You've got looks..."

Karen looked away. Again her pride stung. Singing in a night club, when she had come to New York to be a great actress. But Roxanne had asked a favor.

"I can try."

Half an hour later they were on their way to the station in a taxi.

Standing at the gates, a small blonde girl in a new blue suit and beige hat, Roxanne looked at Karen. Her eyes were drowning in her tears. It was the first time she had cried. After a little while she managed to speak.

"Move into my place, Karen. It's bigger. Don't try to see Sam Kasten until this afternoon. There's a rehearsal. I don't know how long I'll be gone. I'll stay as long as they need me." Her bright mouth trembled. "Funny what you said about not giving up as long as somebody needed you. You're going on trial today and so am I. You see, they weren't keen about me. Bill's parents, I mean. Their only boy and—and a girl who sings in a night club. Can't blame them much." As the gates opened, she gripped Karen's hand. "Thanks for—for everything."

"I've done nothing, Roxanne." Back in her room, Karen put her hands against her flushed face and thought, "I can't do it! I shouldn't have promised. I'll make a fool of myself!" But Roxanne had asked her to keep her job for her. "You can't give up as long as somebody needs you."

Karen tried to think reasonably. Imagine you are back in Harrington at one of the Saturday night parties and you've been asked to sing. They always said, "Oh, come on, Karen. Give us one of those low blues numbers." Often as they rode at night Jerry had said, "There's a new song. I don't know the words. Sing it for me, Karen." She had to imagine that she was back in Harrington. Glimpsing her face in the mirror, she saw that her mouth wore a bitter smile. She had come to New York to be a great actress and now she was going to try to get a job singing break-break songs on a hotel roof. And one night, because it seemed to be a place where he went, Philip would come and see her...

But there was no time to think or plan. Seeing her unfinished letter to Jerry, she crumpled it slowly and dropped it in the basket beside the desk. She couldn't admit defeat.

The tailored gray suit she had worn so much was warm. Quickly she changed into a simple black dress, a small black hat, painted her mouth, and looked through the dresser for a pair of clean white gloves. All at once she thought of Philip again with bitterness. "I'm not defeated yet. I'll get there yet, Philip. I'll make you so proud of me you'll come to me. I'm doing this for Roxanne who has lost everything she believed in."

At the hotel she asked the elevator operator for Mr. Kasten. "He's on the roof," she was told. "They're rehearsing."

"There was no time to think or plan, for when she stepped off the elevator, she was in the large room where she had danced with Bill McGrath not many nights ago. The men in the orchestra were in their shirt sleeves. The leader was mopping his brow. She scarcely recognized the tango dancers in street clothes. But standing only a few feet away from her was a short, stout man with thin dark hair and small dark eyes. Puffing on a strong cigar, he was silently watching the entertainers.

While the tango dancers were arguing with the orchestra leader, Karen went to the short stout man. "Mr. Kasten?" she asked. Turning, he scowled at her. But she continued, "I'm a friend of Miss Dell. She—she had to leave town today hurriedly. You may have seen the papers. The young man who disappeared off a ship near Miami was the man she was going to marry. She went to see his parents." Her breath seemed short.

She paused a moment and then said, "I'd like to take her place while she's away."

Sam Kasten took the cigar from his mouth and squinted his small dark eyes. Then he looked Karen up and down, beginning with the small black slippers that had walked so many miles.

"You mean the young fellow who waited for Dell after the show?" he asked in a thick heavy voice. Karen nodded.

Kasten placed the cigar between his teeth, chewed on it, and wagged his head. "That's tough—tough on her." His shrewd little eyes appraised her coldly again. "Did she tell you... a chance."

"Any experience?" Should she lie? "No," Karen said. "Only at amateur things but I'm sure I can..."

The argument settled between the dancers and the leader, the music began. Sam Kasten raised his hand. "Say, wait a Keep quiet."

Every one looked at Karen. But Sam Kasten was a show off tonight's show, a show off a singer. He could agency and get a girl in ites but the girl would Roxanne. The better place going in for "class" and th was getting tired of th blondes. This girl p couldn't sing but she was and beautiful. She was Broadway type. She had Oh, well, give her a break she clicked...

"Okay," he said. Looking the wide room, lovely a with dim lights and the women's dresses, ugly in the time glare, he called to chestra leader, "I'm giv yound lady an audition, G He glanced at Karen. "your name?"

"Karen Mallare."

"Let's see what you can She felt his shrewd ey low her as she went to chestra. She saw the youn who played the saxophone saw the eyes of the tango ers sweep over her. Forge Think you are back in Ha singing to your friends!"

JAPANESE BOYCOTT ORDERED BY GREEN

AFL Chieftain Calls Trade in Reprisal for 'Cruel War' in China.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(UP) President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, today called on its 3,500,000 members, their families and friends, to boycott all Japanese goods in reprisal against the Japanese "ruthless and cruel war" in China.

In a letter to the heads of the 104 national, international and local unions affiliated with the federation, Green urged that local boycott committees be formed to call on merchants and request them to refuse to sell or offer for sale merchandise made in Japan.

The boycott was authorized by the federation's convention in Denver last October. The rival Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis, adopted a similar resolution at its first war council in Atlantic City, N. J., but has not yet urged that the boycott be made effective.

Green made his letter public after Secretary of State Cordell Hull had told newspapermen that first official reports of the bombing of the American gunboat, Panay, by Japanese aviators confirmed eye-witness accounts of survivors that the craft was machine-gunned by Japanese surface vessels as she sank in the Yangtze river.

In urging the Japanese boycott, Green wrote that it is a "moral weapon" which the American people may use in "voicing their opposition and protest against the aggressive, indefensible war which the Japanese are waging against the Chinese people."

COLD WAVE IN N. Y. BROKEN BY RAIN

Sleet Makes Driving Dangerous on Upstate Roads.

Sleet made driving dangerous early in the day along main traffic arteries from Buffalo through Rochester, Syracuse, Ithaca and Albany, but the sleet turned to rain as temperatures rose in the afternoon.

With the exception of the extreme northeast section of the state which reported snowfalls, the cold wave that swept the upstate area early in the week appeared broken. Albany reported a temperature of 37 degrees during the day, and the thermometer stood at 40 in Niagara Falls.

SHOWERS PREDICTED ON GULF COAST

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—(P) Probable showers tonight, and somewhat colder weather for tomorrow in connection with a Texas disturbance was predicted today by the United States Weather Bureau here for the coastal section.

The bureau ordered northeast storm warnings at 8 a. m. (Atlanta time) on the gulf coast from Galveston, Texas, to Carrabelle, Fla.

JOBLESS WELSH MINERS TO MAKE GAS OF COAL

WERN TAW, Wales, Dec. 16.—(P)—The Earl of Dunraven and Mount-Earl today laid the cornerstone of the first unit of a new industry planned to employ thousands of Welsh miners who have been jobless since 1920.

A $3,000,000 plant will make oil and other by-products from coal dug from the long idle mines. From 500 to 750 tons of coal daily will be used in making, among other things, gasoline for the royal airforce.

Yuletide Gifts That Are Practical and at the Same Time Beautiful

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—Last night and this morning we had some really beautiful music in the White House. Last night, Mr. Richard Tauber could have gone on for many hours and held his audience spellbound. The young American violinist, Miss Ruth Rossell, was not only a joy to look at, but a great pleasure to listen to as well. The two were a perfect combination.

At the end, as people said good night, one friend remarked: "You can't live up to this concert for the rest of the year." One very musical friend insisted she was going back into the supper room where the artists have something to eat after the concert, to tell them how much she had enjoyed the music.

I am always glad when people who are often phlegmatic show they really enjoy a concert. It must be a real gratification to the artists when they get a warm response. So often you feel an audience is applauding in a perfunctory way out of politeness, and yet I imagine that is due often to shyness and uncertainty, for, as a nation, we do not let ourselves go very easily in showing our enthusiasm and many people are not sure of their musical taste.

When I drove along the bridge this morning, it seemed like an entirely different place. Everything was gray and misty. It had rained and frozen. On the way across the bridge I saw one reckless gentleman put on his brake suddenly and spin completely around. Luckily, no one was near enough to him to do him any harm or to be harmed by him, but it served as a good warning to me and I crept along the road.

The top of the Washington monument was enveloped in mist; two planes zoomed over our heads and were soon lost in the low ceiling. The leafless trees and the gray light had the quality you sometimes see in a Japanese painting. It was very beautiful but so different from yesterday when the sun shone and the sky was blue.

All of the out-of-town guests who stayed with us for the cabinet dinner left this morning. Some ladies arrived for the luncheon which I give every year to the wives of the members of the supreme court. Afterward, Miss Ruby Ely, who has a most beautiful soprano voice, gave us a short program of songs which we all greatly enjoyed.

This afternoon, the Good-Will Industries, which are doing a very good piece of work, are to hold an antique exhibition and a sale of dolls. I hope this will attract people's attention to the work which they are doing. I am dropping in to buy a doll, which will, I am sure, find a home at Christmastime. Then home to see an old friend for tea.

The first editorial in the morning's Times was one which I felt many of our citizens would be interested in reading. It struck a fundamental note which many of the women in this country, I feel sure, are anxious to see emphasized. War anywhere as a method of settling difficulties should be looked upon as too antiquated for civilized nations to use as a weapon.

Beauty According To You

(Posed by Marlene Dietrich.)

Gifts Over Which "Milady" and "Your Lady" Will Enthuse

By LILLIAN MAE

1. A perfume with a definite, spicy fragrance which one just doesn't ignore. Used directly on the skin, it gives a woman illusions about herself—and who of us can't use a few illusions about ourselves? It is really superb on furs, transforming the lowliest skin into a silver fox cape—an illusion worthy of any perfume. The price ranges upward from the $1.50 flacon size.

2. Three of a French perfume's most delightful odors in cologne, packaged in a box which reminds one of the tip-top of a New York apartment house or hotel, up above the noise and din, and the glittering lights which are Manhattan. Each fragrance is in an individual leakproof shaker bottle, and the price of the whole is $3. You or your best friend will rave over this delightful ensemble, all under one roof—one for each of your moods or occasions, and you will agree with me that it is indeed a unique package.

3. She will feel like a Roman empress luxuriating in a fragrant, foamy milk bath and armed with a giant cake of herbal soap. The milk bath will make her tub-time a beauty and health ritual long to be remembered. A handful of the velvety white powder added to the bath transforms it into a cool, silky-white liquid topped with millions of oxygen bubbles. She will step forth invigorated, refreshed, beautified. A fine, almost invisible film of milk powder left on her skin will help to keep it soft and lovely, while a deodorizing agent incorporated in the bath will assume complete freedom from perspiration odor. This irresistible combination is a delightful gift.

4. Another new item which causes women to emit plenty of "ohs" and "ahs," is a giant box of dusting powder. It is so large that it requires two hands to lift it. Actually, it is three pounds of luscious, clinging dusting powder, with an immense lamb's wool puff—the perfect symbol of the magnificent. Its price is $10—but what a lovely, loveable gift it makes!

5. Who wouldn't be pleased to receive a very beautiful bottle of perfume, this name and odor of which reminds one of old Kentucky and the Derby? Packaged with it for the price of $7.50 are three dainty blue satin sachets scented to match, attractively assembled in a charming blue box lined with pink, carrying gold lettering.

For the names of these gift suggestions and the stores at which they may be purchased, phone me at my office in The Constitution building. If you do not live in Atlanta, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SPECIFIC EXERCISES EFFECTIVE IN NORMALIZING BUST CONTOUR

After nearly two generations of boyish deformity, the feminine form divine is now expected to measure up to the current fashion in figures, with the normally curved high bust line an important measurement.

Women everywhere seem to be concerned with the improvement of the bust contour in compliance with this normal conception of figure beauty, and you will no doubt be relieved to know that improvement of this measurement is closely linked with your weight program. The most beautiful line of the bust is found always in women whose weight is normal or nearly normal.

The glands which form the breasts are apparently hypersensitive to overweight, underweight and to low vitality. With overweight there is often an abnormal amount of excess fatty tissue in the region of the bust, and with underweight and its accompanying low vitality, the contour of the bust may be small and poorly defined. Bringing the weight to normal is the first step in the improvement of the bust contour.

Radiant vitality, also essential to the high youthful curve of the bust, presupposes excellent muscle tone. Although the breasts are glands, their position is mainly dependent upon fan-shaped pectoral muscles spreading over the chest. If these muscles are kept animated and strong, the position of the bust is high and the contour lovely. When muscle tone is lacking the breasts have an increased tendency to sag.

For a lovely bust, build up the pectoral muscles.

There are several sports which afford splendid exercise of these muscles. In studying various types of figures with the effect of activity in mind, you will find that the beautiful bust contour is most frequently an attribute of the women who swim often and regularly. Badminton, tennis and the rougher game of basketball, which is gaining a following among young women, also exercise the pectoral muscles.

In those sports the arms are flung above the head, held straight out from the shoulders and moved in circles. Specifically, these are the movements which most benefit the pectoral muscles and which are put into exercise form for you in the leaflets "Rust Reducing Exercises" and "Bust Developing Exercises." Still another alternative is the punching bag, which may be put up in basement or attic, and which is effective and vigorous exercise.

The various ointments and as- tringents on the market will not affect the muscles supporting the bust. The ointments are lubricants and as such are valuable in treatment of a dry skin, or in massage to stimulate the circulation, which may help to develop an undersize bust. If you use massage, the treatment should be upward and circular stroke. The astringents will tone and refine the skin and may help to increase circulation. Never use any apparatus of any kind on the breasts.

The best possible exercise for improvement of the bust contour is to swim several times a week, using the breast stroke. The next best and a good substitute is to follow the exercises given in the leaflets suggested above. Write for this leaflet, and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope with your request to Miss Kain, in care The Atlanta Constitution.

Romantic Moment From Film "Hurricane"

A scene from "The Hurricane," opening next Friday at Loew's Grand. Turkey and guest tickets are being offered by The Constitution and Loew's Grand for essays on the Island of Tahiti, where part of the story is laid.

Time To Compete In Tahiti Contest Grows Shorter

"The Hurricane," thrilling, romantic idyll of the South Seas, has been made into a movie by Samuel Goldwyn and will be the Christmas attraction at Loew's Grand.

In connection with the showing of this picture, with Dorothy Lamour, Jon Hall and Mary Astor in leading roles, The Constitution and Loew's Grand is offering ten turkey and 25 guest tickets to "The Hurricane" for the truest, neatest and best-written essays on the subject of the Island of Tahiti—where much of the action of the story takes place.

Be sure that your article is of not more than 150 words, is written on only one side of the paper, and reaches the desk of the Hurricane Contest Editor of The Constitution not later than 10 o'clock Monday morning. There is much of interest on the subject of this tropical island—its people and its customs. So get busy if you would compete for a turkey or theater tickets.

Hodgson Family To Be Reunited For First Time in Seven Years

By Sally Forth.

WITH Christmas only one week from tomorrow, families all over Atlanta are looking forward with great anticipation to reunions with members of their clan whom they have not seen for weeks, months, and, sometimes, even years. One of the most joyous of these reunions is that of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hodgson with their sons and daughters, as this will be the first time in seven years that the even Hodgson brothers and sisters will have been together for a Christmas celebration.

Jenny Hodgson Van Winkle and Martha Hodgson Ellis are the only sisters in this prominent family and with their husbands, Edward and Cuddy, will form a part of the welcoming committee at 851 Clifton road, the charming home of Dr. and Mrs. Hodgson, when the clan begins to gather.

Fred Hodgson and his wife, Janet, arrived recently from Korea

after an absence of several years, and Sloat Hodgson just arrived on Tuesday from New York City for the occasion. Tomorrow, Newton Hodgson, who attends the Yale School of Drama in New Haven, Conn., and Bryant, who now hails from Tucson, Ariz., will join the family ranks. Margaret, a student at Cambridge school in Kendall Green, Mass., and the youngest Hodgson, begins her holiday in Atlanta on Sunday.

Ever since these seven were little children, there has been a tradition in the family that everyone must get up for Christmas breakfast, and that all, including Dr. and Mrs. Hodgson, must file into the dining room in order of their age and sing Christmas carols. This year, they will resume that old custom that has been made impossible for such a long time.

YOUTHFUL feminine hearts

are a-flutter over the news that Mart Bailey will be among the visiting beaux here during the holidays. He is at the Military Academy at West Point, and as written his grandfather, Charles A. Davis, that he will arrive on Christmas Eve. Mart is the only son of Colonel B. M. Bailey, U. S. A., and Mrs. Bailey, who live at Fort Sam Houston in an Antonio, Texas. He is quite popular with belles and beaux in the college set of society and has lots of friends here, who will welcome him with open arms. If Willet Davis, who is Mart's first cousin, does not decide to go to Denver to be groomsmen at the wedding, he will come to Atlanta to spend the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Hudson Moore, who is visiting her father, Mr. Davis, at his Peachtree road home. Willet lives in New York, and is a Wall Street broker. He grasps every opportunity to come to Atlanta, the city in which his parents lived for many years before going to Denver, Col.

ONE of the bevy of attractive Atlanta belles who will be home from school for Christmas is lovely Mary Anne Hillsman, who arrived last evening from Stevens College in Missouri to spend a three-week holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hillsman, at their home on Eleventh street.

Mary Anne will have as her week-end guests Betty Pierce, of Indianapolis; Mary Kidd, of Birmingham; Sarah Smith, of Chattanooga, and Margaret Richards, of Columbus. These five girls occupy the same suite at Stevens and Sarah, who has visited Mary Anne many times before, is her roommate. Betty was the guest of the Hillsmans last summer at Sea Island, but this is the first time either of the other belles has paid a visit to Eleventh street.

Mary Anne will entertain on Sunday evening at a buffet supper honoring Rachel Burton and Isabel Boykin, popular debutantes, who claim Stevens as their alma mater and while there knew Mary Anne's visitors.

THE little gold pin that Ermine Cater Robinson wore when she was married last Tuesday in August was the "something old" that brides like to wear on their wedding day. When Ermine's mother, as the former Miss Abraham, married the late John M. Cater, she presented duplicates of the pin to her bridesmaids. One of these bridesmaids was Anne Erwin McFeet, who lives in Columbia, S. C., and when she went to August to attend the Cater-Robinson wedding, she carried the pin with her for Ermine to wear.

The emblem is engraved with Mrs. Cater's initials and the date of her marriage, June 30, 1915. For the "something borrowed," Mrs. English Robinson wore a De Molay pin which belonged to Wade Sneed, an usher in the bridal party.

Among the handsome wedding gifts, the bride counted the silver service of the English family of Atlanta, and the chest of silver, which are heirlooms in the family and given to the couple by Mrs. J. D. Robinson Sr., the groom's mother, who is the former Miss Emily Robinson, daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. James W. English, who were beloved pioneer Atlantans.

Miss Ruth Fariss Becomes Bride Of Charles Mabry at Home Rites

Miss Ruth Fariss became the bride of Charles M. Mabry, of Detroit, at a beautiful ceremony taking place last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. B. L. Fariss, at 2115 East Lake road. The Rev. Dr. Wallace Rogers officiated in the presence of a number of friends and relatives.

The bridal motif of green and white was used in the decorations in the reception rooms. The marriage vows were said in front of an improvised altar of palms, ferns and Easter lilies in the living room. Tall cathedral candelabra held burning white tapers. The aisle through which the wedding party marched was formed of small white posts, linked together by white satin ribbon. Miss Ruth Dabney Smith, violinist, and Mrs. Charles G. Rainer, pianist, gave a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

The ushers were William Heatton, of Gadsden, Ala.; Joe Hicks Johnson, Ben Statham and Charles G. Rainer. Al Mabry was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Al Mabry was the matron of honor and the lovely bridesmaids were Miss Frances Sanderson, of Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Martha Goddard, of Gadsden, Ala.; Mrs. Maurice Davis and Miss Lucy Statham. They were gowned alike in models of slipper satin fashioned with tight bodices, draped sleeves and full skirts with uneven hemlines that formed short trains. They wore Juliet caps of gold tulle and pearls. The bridesmaids wore gold satin and carried fan-shaped bouquets of gold rosebuds and delphinium, tied with aquamarine ribbon and the matron of honor wore aquamarine satin and carried a similar bouquet tied with gold ribbon.

The beautiful bride entered with her uncle, Robert A. Heatton, of Tampa, Fla., who gave her in marriage. Her blond beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of white satin. The model featured a cowl neckline, long sleeves and bands of real lace set in at the waistline and extending into the long court train. Her finger-tip length veil of three tiers of tulle, each of which was bound with satin ribbon, was caught to her hair with a pearl tiara. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, centered with an orchid.

A reception followed the ceremony, during which Mrs. Fariss received her guests in a gown of black lace, the waist made over flesh-colored satin, with a corsage of orchids. The green and white motif prevailed in the dining room. The lace-covered table was centered by the tiered wedding cake, outlined by white roses and greenery. Placed at either end of the table were silver candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Ruffles and Ribbons for the Holiday Parties

Swing Time. This dawn blue taffeta has uncountable yards in the skirt, that is slightly short in the front and dips in the back and is banded in rows of tiny fluted ruffles. An abbreviated bolero with puff sleeves tops a fitted bodice. It is priced about $20.

For further information concerning these articles sketched in Atlanta shops, phone the Fashion Editor of The Constitution.

A distinguished young lady of ten will wear the tea-rose taffeta with bows of contrasting rose taffeta, at left. About $7. The demure little girl of six wears pale pink net with rows and rows of ruffles over a slip of crepe de chine. It has a belt and bow of pink and blue ribbon and tiny flowers. About $11.

No Christmas wardrobe is complete without a white lapin coat. The one above is priced at about $15. A black velvet hood with sequin trim is lovely to wear with your long velvet coat. About $5. For allure wear a black veil with white gardenias. They also come sequin trimmed. You may purchase one for about $3.

Hollywood Looking Glass

Petite girls who pass by columns labeled "Tips to Tiny Tots" with the idea that short girls can't deceive the public into believing they are tall should halt right here. Anita Louise, Bette Davis and Jane Bryan are all five feet three. Anita dresses for height at all times; Bette is tall or short, depending upon her character; and Jane doesn't mind being small. They all three seem to be able to regulate their height as though they had "Alice in Wonderland" potions to drink.

For five-foot-three's who want to look five-foot-six, Anita recommends several ruses. High heels are important, of course, but shoes must be so conservative that no one's attention is called to the height of the heel. Dresses must have slim lines. All of Anita's street clothes are made with tubular skirts and many of her evening gowns have molded lines. Slender vertical stripes also create an optical illusion of greater length. High, unaccented necklines add height, but it is the high-crowned hats of the season that Anita considers her greatest boon. She also believes holding an ensemble down to two colors helps her scheme along.

Outside of tricks in her wardrobe Bette Davis says a coiffure will often add or subtract several inches. She introduced the coronet braid with bobbed hair while portraying a character who had to seem to tower over someone else in a scene.

Jane Bryan says her secret of looking short is the wearing of very schoolgirlish clothes at all times.

At the Beverly-Wilshire on Saturday nights one usually sees quite a collection of celebrities, some of whom won their fame on the gridiron and others on the screen. Among the screenites recently was Wendy Barrie, her titian locks admirably set off by a robe de style yellow taffeta embroidered in silver and spring green. A topaz necklace was her only piece of jewelry while her tiny calot was cleverly contrived of little fresh yellow roses.

Penny Singleton, whose name was recently changed from Dorothy McNulty, was in midnight blue wool lace fashioned with cut-away back but long-fitted sleeves. The dress was girdled with apple green velvet, a touch repeated in a flat flower topping her dark blue evening veil.

Patricia (Honey Child) Wilder, who has the broadest and most intriguing southern accent in movietown, wore absinthe chiffon draped over graceful Grecian lines. Color accents of turquoise were in her scarf, narrow bands in her hair and in her narrow bracelet.

Anita Louise wore black velvet which had a period look in its wide skirt banded with black net. A novel note introduced in her black calot was a circlet of fresh lilies of the valley—the only flowers she wore.

With the advent of Christmas, the days are filled with parties, fun and festivity for the younger crowd. This young college miss looks as pretty as a picture in pale apricot starched lace. Distinctive is the patch pocket of small French flowers. It sells for about $23.

Forecast of Fashion's Trend

By JACQUELINE GREENE.

With Christmas only a week away, Atlanta presents a kaleidoscope of brilliant ideas outshining anything that the shops have yet shown.

What are these new fashions in frocks and accessories that are glamour producing—that give one the thrill of youth and beauty?

Well, just take a day off and give yourself over to the spell of beauty that one finds in scintillating gowns and jewels that for all the world remind of the myriad of stars gleaming from "that inverted bowl they call the sky."

Still most important of all the dresses is the draped frock. And new and exciting ways to shirr and drape it are evidenced in the shops as your eyes devour this one and that (even though your beastly pocketbook won't). Its best colors are dark green, black dahlia and black. (What a black, black year!)

There is a dress that haunts us like a familiar melody. A dinner gown in crepe Trida. It possesses splendor, soft draped lines, topped by glittering jewel-embroidered bands, one to outline the square-cut décolletage; two to mark the shoulders, gathering the sleeves in to full rich folds.

What loads of fun it is to try on hats this season! At least half of them are in gay colors. And there's really nothing that will step up an all-black dress like a gaily colored chapeau, say, in ruby-red, wine or royal blue.

Of course it's perfectly silly to wear a huge jeweled bug or a diamond studded dog on the collar of one's coat but, due to the Schiaparelli influence, evidenced in all the fashions, it's being done.

You can really have a good looking blouse or sweater without paying a budding fortune for it. Or if you're wanting one of those perfectly simple dresses for casual or sports wear, there are ducky little things in wool jersey. There is everything you want in this kind of a dress—good tailoring, stitch 'n down pleats to narrow your hips, yoked shoulders and a cute little white pique collar. They make one look as fresh as a homemade doll.

One of the fads of the moment is to wear metal and jeweled belts with your evening gowns. And often this will be the only trimming—a surprise of the season is the number of blues around in the winter time. And such unusual blues! There's one blue we like best—a grayed medium tone that goes beautifully with black and with brown.

By the way, you simply can't avoid getting something in plaid. A suit or a dress or a separate coat or jacket. So . . . put this on your "must" list.

Among things to which we can't say no: A love of a princess dress done in mahogany velvet with a long slide fastener . . . a mustard wool dress simply plastered in pockets . . . a high fur turban which looks for all the world like an overturned flowerpot . . . a gaily colored hat and loose in back, for scarf to match, to wear with dark clothes and then, ah, then . . . a bleached skunk jacket for evening that will knock your eyes out!

Mainbocher, who is an American by birth and an exmagazine editor, possesses an uncanny sense of lasting chic! And his clothes . . . are so easy to wear (if you can get them and you can get them if you try).

This August he gave us clothes to reveal the figure by day and by night, romantic, gossamer evening clothes in which one is supposed to be all that the poets dreamed of. Also he gave the long sleeves and high necks. Coats cut straight in front and loose in back; suits with straight sack jackets or full-backs; loose folds hanging from smooth shoulders. His use of fullness is always concentrated at back.

New Mixed Colors For Holiday Wrappings

New variations of color for holiday packages may be obtained with transparent wrapping by using two standard colors and combining them in much the same manner as pigments are mixed. At a recent luncheon given in New York, Howard Ketcham, noted color stylist, showed how to "mix" a number of subtle shades with gift wrapping by laying one color of the cellulose film over another.

"Splendid surprise treatments are possible," said Mr. Ketcham, "with the transparent color filter effect that the film provides. For example, amber over light green will produce an attractive lemon hue. Blue over light green provides a deep-sea turquoise. Pink and tango produce a dark tan. Amber and violet combine to make a rich duobonnet."

When the box is colored, Mr. Ketcham uses a different color of the transparent wrapping to obtain a new effect. On a red box, for instance, violet wrapping produces a striking magenta. Cover an orange container with light green cellophane and it becomes yellow green. If the box is yellow, light blue wrapping transforms it into a rich Araby green. With a purple-blue box and amber wrapping, the result is Jockey green.

IN SECRET SESSION

The Atlanta board of firemasters, meeting in secret session on Monday night, took issue with Chief Parker on the question of who should be named to succeed the late Captain C. C. Carter, and authorized changes in the rules and regulations of the department.

The law passed by the legislature last March and signed by the Governor, which provides a system of civil service for the fire department, specifically provides:

"All promotions in said department shall be solely on merit, efficiency, and fitness, which shall be determined by the recommendations of the chief of such fire department and confirmed by the board of fire masters created hereunder."

If the action of the board on Monday night will result in stripping the chief of his right to recommend men for promotion, it is not only contrary to the civil service law, but is patently dangerous. It imperils the efficiency of the department, through weakening the authority of the chief, and thus tending to impair discipline, and it opens the door to promotions based upon politics instead of ability.

Under the law, promotions are not made solely on the chief's recommendations. He is merely required to submit a list of 10 men to take the physical and mental examinations for promotion to the next higher rank. From those who successfully pass the examinations the board names the men for promotion. The board has full authority over the examinations.

Atlanta remembers, from bitter experience, the result of political control of the police department, a condition now happily remedied. No such destructive political influences must be allowed to creep into the administration of the fire department.

If there is danger of such an outcome from the steps taken by the firemasters on Monday night, the board must rescind its action. The chief, if departmental efficiency is to be maintained, must not be relegated to the status of a mere puppet, without authority over the men under his command.

DOES IT MAKE SENSE?

While the legislature is in session it might be wise to draw attention to an anachronism on the statute books of Georgia which, for the sake of safety and convenience of users of the state highways, should be corrected.

There is now in Georgia a state highway patrol which has already, in the first three months of its existence, proven its worth many times over.

There is, also, a state law which places the speed limit for automobiles, anywhere in the state, at 40 miles per hour.

These two things do not make sense, it is pointed out in a brief communication from a reader of The Constitution, who does not sign his name. The state police force, he reminds, was created, among other things, to enforce traffic laws. On the other hand, there is a traffic law which no one obeys and which no intelligent police officer would try to strictly enforce.

Safe driving today does not depend upon an arbitrary speed limit. It is a question of driving at a speed not greater than that warranted, with safety, by the conditions of the road, the mechanical perfection of the car, and the ability of the driver. Everyone knows this and everyone drives accordingly.

There is hardly another state which places its speed limit, on the open road, as low as 40 miles per hour. And, regardless of the statute books, there is hardly a driver who observes such a law, anywhere in the nation.

New York state, and several others, have eliminated entirely the speed limit for driving on roads outside of corporate limits. The only reference to speed in these states is that, if above 40 miles per hour, the onus of proving the driving was safe is on the driver.

South Carolina places its limit at 55 miles per hour. In Florida it is 50. And so with many other states.

Georgia set the limit too low, even when the 40 miles per hour law was enacted. With the improvement in automobiles and roads since then, the law is archaic.

It would be the part of wisdom to raise the limit, or, as in New York, to require, simply, safe driving at any speed. In fact, in most cases, a car driven at 40 miles per hour is a greater menace to safety today than one driven faster.

With a reasonable law, the state highway patrol could, reasonably, undertake its enforcement.

Everything is relative, of course, and it's been years since we heard the Turk referred to as terrible.

A face on the bathroom floor should be left there. It doesn't belong behind the wheel of a high-powered sedan.

SHAMEFUL, IF TRUE

Reports are current in Washington that the crew of the American ship, the Dollar liner President Hoover, became drunk after the vessel ran aground near Formosa last week. It is stated that women and children among the hundreds of passengers were terrorized and that a condition that should shame every American seaman was staged on the stricken vessel.

The senate maritime committee has placed enough credence in these reports to order a complete investigation and has asked full details on the incident from the American consul at Manila, where 134 of the rescued passengers were landed.

The seriousness of a situation where the crew of a great ship, in distress at sea, becomes drunk must be overemphasized. Such a condition violates every tradition of the sea and turns the thumb of condemnation down upon American seamen and all their heritage of glorious maritime history.

There have been rumors and open charges of similar happenings on other American vessels on the high seas. It has reached the point where ocean travelers admit they cannot receive the service and courteous treatment from the stewards and crew members of ships flying the American flag that are a matter of course on British, French, Italian or German ships.

If labor disputes between the men who man the American merchant marine have so vitiated discipline on board ship that such events as those reported to have taken place on the Hoover, are proven to be fact, immediate and drastic action must be taken to remedy the condition. Otherwise the American merchant marine is doomed.

There must be an investigation of the Hoover charges so complete and fearless that the exact truth must be known, without vestige of excuse or whitewash.

PRISON SECURITY UNTESTED

The escape of five prisoners from the new state prison in Tattall county in no wise reflects upon that institution as a place of safe-keeping. The five who escaped were working in the open, two miles from the prison itself, when they attacked the guard and made their getaway.

This is the second escape from that prison, but in each case the vulnerability of the building itself was not involved.

There may be justifiable criticism for officials who permitted admittedly desperate and unruly prisoners to work in the open country with escape, apparently, so easy. When prisoners are assigned to Tattall because they are too unruly for other places of confinement, it would seem logical to use the prison itself to keep them secure.

However, it is stated that conditions inside the prison are not yet completely ready for the prisoners. Soon the prison will be in full operation, with all its impregnability—from the inside—brought into action. It will be time enough, then, to criticize the building if convicts are able to escape.

But one thing is certain. As long as problem prisoners are allowed to work outside the prison proper, there will be escapes. They must be confined behind stone walls and steel bars, as was intended when the penitentiary was built.

OUR UNSURPASSED CLIMATE

Atlanta and Georgia have experienced an unusually extended, for this section of the country, period of cold weather. For the greater part of a week temperatures ranged far below the freezing point and, as blustery winds stung with their cold breath, some Atlantans have complained and grouched.

While Atlanta mercury readings were never less than a dozen degrees above zero, other sections of the country would have welcomed zero weather as a relief. While Atlantans walked streets dry and unimpeded by snow, New York national guardsmen struggled desperately to dig out towns buried in snow, paralyzing blizzards wrought havoc in the east, and in California storm floods reaped a harvest of death and destruction.

The cold wave which struck Atlanta should be welcomed as a blessing, rather than a pest. An occasional touch of cold weather improves community health, invigorates and strengthens all. It prevents us from becoming too soft, acts as tonic to guard against our succumbing to the sad fate of human hothouse plants.

Atlanta extends full sympathy to all those unfortunate who became victims of the weather in less fortunate places. But, at the same time, the reports of blizzards, of snows, of floods, may serve to make us realize anew the blessings of Atlanta climate and to appreciate once more that there is no city, in all the nation, more favorably situated, meteorologically, than our own.

An Ohio experimenter lists alfalfa as suitable to the human diet. An older school still holds to letting the cow eat it and eating the cow.

WHITE HOUSE HAS A BIRTHDAY

(From the Savannah Morning News.)

The White House celebrated its 145th birthday Wednesday. Reports from Washington say there was no formal observance of the occasion, but students of history will recollect the historic limestone mansion "grew up with America." Its cornerstone laid on a cold, blustery October day in 1792, the home of our Presidents has watched America grow from a backwoods nation into one of the world's greatest powers.

The mansion came through four wars, being burned in one of them by the British in 1814. It was through that experience it became known as the White House, because it was painted white to cover the marks of the fire. Happiness and tragedy have stalked its halls. There were 13 weddings within its confines, the last that of Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the World War President, to William Gibbs McAdoo, now senator from California. And two Presidents died in its rooms—William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

At a recent meeting, the governors of the association of stock exchange firms, most powerful of the exchange members' trade organizations, voted secretly but unanimously to work for a salaried, non-member president of the exchange. The vote was tantamount to a declaration of open war on the present president of the exchange, Charles R. Gay, and his influential predecessor, Richard Whitney.

Mr. Gay, Mr. Whitney and their big following of specialists, floor traders and conservative brokers who like to think of the exchange as a private club, find the idea of a salaried, non-member exchange president supremely repugnant. Mr. Gay is not publicly on record, but he summed up the feelings of his group when he told a close associate that an "outside" president would mean the end of the exchange's self-government and usher in an era of "paid bureaucratic" control.

ELEVEN HANDS IN AIR The non-member president idea has been given strong behind-scenes encouragement by Chairman William O. Douglas and other members of the Securities and Exchange Commission, their idea being that a non-member would administer the exchange rules more stringently. The vote of the governors of the association of stock exchange firms has the effect of putting behind Mr. Douglas the great wire houses, which give the stock exchange its most direct contact with the public.

The vote took place at a meeting in the association offices at 42 Broadway. Eleven of the 15 governors were present. The subject of an outsider president for the exchange was put before the meeting. Being wary of the heretical proposal, the men around the long table agreed to vote without preliminary discussion. The question was put, and infinitely to everyone's surprise, the hands of all 11 governors were raised in support of the heresy.

It was decided to defer official announcement of the vote until after the exchange's recently appointed committee on reorganization should make a report. Thus the publication of the reorganization report is likely to be the signal for the outbreak of hostilities.

WANTED, A $50,000 MAN It's very hard to say who will win, although with SEC backing, the big wire houses of the association have a fair chance to best the old guard and Mr. Gay. If the old guard is defeated, the stock exchange help-wanted advertisement for the presidential job will be about as follows:

"Wanted: A man skilled in administration, without embarrassing political ties, who is willing to tackle a tough job on a three-year contract, at a salary of $50,000 a year." General Frank T. Hines, of the Veterans' Administration; General James G. Harbord, of the Radio Corporation of America, and Robert E. Wood, of Sears Roebuck & Company, have already been mentioned for the place by the backers of the outsider president scheme.

OLD DEALERS AT SEC A recent odd development in the administrative history of the New Deal is the SEC's sudden decision to pay old dealers $25 a day for "practical business" advice.

Not long ago the SEC completed its new set of rules governing the market's pegging, and stabilizing carried on by underwriting houses when they are offering a new stock issue. Chairman Douglas, slightly sensitive after all the recent charges that he was "destroying" the securities exchanges by "visionary" regulation, decided that before issuing the rules it would be wise to consult the most interested parties.

Therefore, he applied to Monroe Gutman, of Lehman Brothers, and Sidney Weinberg, of Goldman Sachs & Company. Lehman Brothers and Goldman Sachs are two of the largest underwriting firms in the country, so Mr. Douglas was going straight to the fountainhead. He asked Mr. Gutman and Mr. Weinberg to come down to Washington to criticize the new regulations for the SEC, and he promised them a $25 per diem. He also called in Professor George E. Bates, of the Harvard business school, for the same purpose and on the same terms.

HIDE AND SEEK All three men consented. Each of the three was allowed every opportunity to study the prospective regulations, and each criticized them for three hours before the SEC commissioners. Many technical changes which they suggested were accepted by the SEC.

The funniest part of the whole business was that Messrs. Gutman, Weinberg and Bates played hide and seek with one another through the SEC building's bleak corridors. Mr. Douglas wanted each of the three to give his independent opinion. With this in mind, he let each man think that no other expert had been summoned to help. Unfortunately, the three arrived simultaneously, so each of them had to be carefully shepherded out of the others' way by SEC officials.

While the SEC commissioners don't expect to repeat their surprised hide-and-seek game, they were so well satisfied with the results of their request for old deal advice that they plan to follow the same procedure with any other new rules they may promulgate in the future.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Salutations, Mister Santa,
We're expecting you, once more,
We haven't got a chimney.
Please knock upon the door.

We're not anticipating Gifts expensive for this year,
But we're anxiously awaiting
The sound of your reindeer.

Just to know we're not forgotten,
Say a tie, or socks, or such—
Or a bale or two of cotton—
Really, Santa, that's not much!

Those Crowds Of Shoppers.

When you go, these afternoons,
For the orange juice in the favorite drink emporium, gosh, what a crowd is there!

Shoppers, seeking that refreshing drink, that revitalization for the closing hours of the day's struggle. Every stool occupied and a line of standees behind, reaching between the heads to take their own drinks standing up.

The men in white behind the counter performing marvellous tricks, pouring syrup and juice and carbonated water in a dozen directions at once, it seems, yet always into the proper receptacle.
Shoveling great scoops of shaved ice into a handful of glasses and pushing the cash register for a dozen counter checks in a second or less.

And the crowding, pushing women. The women, you know, society—what does it matter?
Automatons until they reach the counter they have sought. Then they come awake and buy with that keenness that is acquired only by the good housewife or the honest purchasing agent.

Yet, isn't it Grand?

There are, admittedly, inconveniences about Christmas in the stores and on the streets. Yet, after all, isn't it glorious? Glorious in all its implications and all its evidences of generosity and love and faith.

It may be tiring, but the tiredness is okay, after all, for it was acquired in the effort to bring happiness to someone else. And don't write back to me saying Christmas gift giving is but a habit that we'd all ignore if we dared, and if we didn't expect presents in return.

There is a great percentage of the gifts bought and given, that is inspired by nothing less than the desire to do something for someone we love, to bring a gleam of surprised delight into eyes that mean so much to us.

Particularly among those little presents that didn't cost so much in money, but which come so sincerely from the heart.

Response Slow
To Our Opportunity.

Response from you who read Silhouettes, to the request for contributions to the special Silhouettes fund, out of which we hope to provide for one of those Ten Opportunity Families for the coming year, has been slower than expected. Surely there are more loyal readers of Silhouettes who are willing to contribute than there are, to stick in an envelope and mail to this column, than we have heard from as yet.

The gifts for the Silhouettes opportunity, to date, total less than $25. Come on, or I'll begin to think there aren't many, after all, who read this daily effusion.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, December 17, 1912:

"Four thousand roosters, hens, pigeons, turkeys, parrots, ducks and guinea—all trying to see which could crow, cackle, gobble, scream or quack the loudest—created a bedlam in the Auditorium-Armory Monday afternoon that served for a hearty welcome to the hundreds of visitors on the opening day of the Southern International poultry show."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, December 17, 1887:

"A few days ago a number of our young men, weary of business cares, organized an excursion to Stone Mountain, taking with them a powerful field glass of improved mechanism. To their surprise they were able, by the aid of the glass, to tell the time by our city clock, while they were at the top of Stone Mountain, 16 miles distant from Atlanta."

Mountains in Ocean.

Guarding the coastline of Norway is a range of undersea mountains which effectively turn back the icy currents flowing down from the Arctic Circle; but the warm Gulf Stream, flowing higher in the water, passes over the peaks and brings the country a moderate climate for the great part of the year.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Marble Area WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16. The avariciously greedy attempt of the Tennessee Valley Authority to steal the marbles—various of Senator George W. Berry, the millionaire labor leader, continues at Knoxville, Tenn. The TVA has been trying to make out that the workmen's rich friend obtained leases on marble lands in the area now flooded by the waters behind Norris dam with view to the condemnation value of the marbles—various. There are several kinds of marble in the mountains, including one type which a marble expert described as ivory-vein marble, worth $5.50 a cubic foot, should anybody wish to buy it.

It probably is unnecessary to explain that the term "marble expert" does not mean one who is an expert at shooting marbles. This is no game of peewees that the millionaire labor leader is playing with the erring government of the land which he has loved and served so well and vice versa. Rather it is a game of big-rings, and for keeps—that Senator Berry did not become a millionaire labor leader playing for fun.

The labor leader, statesman-pariah, who combines in one versatile person the president of the pressmen's union, the proprietor of a 30,000-acre farm and the owner of a great printing plant, has indignantly declared that he does not have to sue the government to make a living. That is a fact which nobody can deny for he was already a millionaire with an assured living when he accepted the civic duty of resisting the government's attempt to steal his marbles.

It is an important case because, brother, if the government can steal Senator Berry's marbles the rest of us will be just pushovers. The richest union president of them all does not rob easy.

Statesman's Sincerity As evidence of the statesman's sincerity in entering the marble industry one witness has testified that his company had sold 900 feet of marble in three years when the flood rose up, unexpectedly, behind the dam and drowned out much of the property.

This was, to be sure, only a small portion of the total 1,000,000 feet of marble said to have been covered by the water or shut off from transportation, and, considering the state of the marble market, it might be argued that the remaining deposit did not represent a very lively asset except in condemnation proceedings.

In fact, it is so argued, and there are individuals sufficiently callous to the sanctity of a citizen's rights and equity to insist that marble in such quantities, in view of the limited demand, is comparable to the field-stone on an abandoned farm in Connecticut or the sand on a desert tract.

Connecticut field-stone might have value in Florida, where the only stone is something like Swiss cheese, and the desert sand might be suitable for making sandpaper, but appraisal seems to be ruled by consideration for the demand and the market price.

Marble statuary is not selling very well, marble palaces are unfashionable these days and will be for some years to come, marble tombstones chip, stain and crumble and are yielding to the granite, poured concrete and cremation, and the marbles that children play with are made of glass and clay. So the marble market has been pretty well reduced to ornamental uses in large office and apartment buildings of which there are more than plenty already built, and to little boys' rooms and little girls' rooms in night clubs.

Sudden Flood There is not much night club construction going on either, so it is possible that even if the TVA hadn't surprised the millionaire labor leader with a sudden flood which came up with only a few years' notice, or practically overnight, he might not have been able to realize on his leases in this life.

The surprise element in this flood is important. The millionaire union president declares that nobody could have been more surprised than he when he discovered that his leases were condemned to the depths of a lake. The TVA has been insinuating that he wasn't surprised, but, on account of his political knowledge and the undeniable shrewdness which made him the richest labor leader in the world, may have had just an inkling at least, that if he leased the marble land the government might have to pay.

As anyone can see, it is a very dirty case, involving an attempt on the part of the very government itself to impugn the motives and steal the marbles—various—of a man who, though rich and himself an employer of labor, is nevertheless the personification of the humble, honest toiler.

Early Religion.

Three hundred years ago Rev. John Wheelwright, brother of Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, America's first woman preacher, was disenfranchised and banished from Massachusetts Bay colony for supporting her. She had been excommunicated, ordered banished for insisting that women had as sound religious ideas as men and for preaching her ideas.

Beautiful Women.

If you want to see the most beautiful women of Paris, it is best to attend the great horse races on the courses at Longchamp, Le Tremblay, St. Cloud, Auteuil, and Englemin.

Famous Bank Theft.

In 1878 a masked band led by John Hoag carried out what is still the biggest bank robbery in history—they got $2,747,000 from the Manhattan Savings Institution, New York.

Nobles Are Loyal to a Monarch

For It Is the Source of Their Nobility

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When Mrs. Trollope and Charles Dickens relieved their eyes by telling Americans the truth about themselves, the character they ridiculed most and found most annoying was the univ. lust and love for dollars. Neither tried to explain it.

Now a publisher announces that a noted psychologist is writing or has written a book, in which he tells why people covet money for its own sake. Well, the answer should be easy to find. If self-preservation is the first law of nature, man's first concern after bread must be self-respect, for he cannot live without it. By hook or by crook, by self-deceit or the perversion of standards, he will find some reason to respect himself—some cause to think himself quite a fellow.

Observe that a woman, despite physical faults, contrives to please with her appearance. She does it by disregarding her points and concentrating on her good ones.

Men use the same system. If frail or small, they are proud of their wit or courage. If ignorant, they are proud of their money. In making unconscious selection of a foundation for his respect, a man naturally chooses the best available. The old, most effective and perhaps most natural is good stock, i. e., several generations of well-behaved, useful and respected ancestors. Next choice is personal excellence—good looks, education, fine manners, superior virtue, skill in the arts or sciences, or any accomplishment that wins renown and gratifies the ego.

Lacking either of these foundations, as many early Americans did, the next logical choice, in a land where money gives power and rank, is dollars.

Miserliness, as a rule, is the result of unhappy experience being snubbed, of feeling inferior or afraid. And one who covets and treasures and loves money for its own sake is as proud as a nobleman of his rank. His chief pleasure is in reflecting much he has and how little others have. It is his balm for hurt and slight and humiliation.

Some desire money because they can use it in building a doing good; others enjoy making it because it is the index of success, but these do not treasure it. The fun was in making it in having it.

But the real dollar lover, whether he realizes it or not, cherishes money for what it does for him. It is his strong castle and patent of nobility.

Stalemate

In Spain?

NEW YORK—What is holding up the much-heralded final smashing drive of General Franco is not very clear. But it cannot be that he counts on dissension amongst the Loyalists to end the war for him. For all competent observers on the spot are unanimous in signalling a greater spirit of unity and cohesion amongst the various groups that support the government than at any time in the past. As a matter of fact, Lawrence Fernsworth, who has followed the inner political evolution of the Loyalist regime very closely, reports in the New York Times that law and order are more surely prevailing than at any time since the proclamation of the republic in 1931.

It may be, as has been suggested here, that Senor Franco is running short of money and equipment, his friends in Rome and Berlin are not so enthusiastic as they were in the beginning when they poured out hundreds of millions of marks and lire, as far as Mussolini and Hitler are concerned, the objectives for which they entered the Spanish adventure have been attained. General Franco controls some of the most important mining areas and supplies them freely with the material they need in Berlin and Rome.

Some think that the insurgents are hiding their time in the hope that the international situation will change, that is to say, that they will obtain wider material and diplomatic support before venturing on a major offensive.

Weather

Interferences.

Yet it must also be taken into consideration that the good fighting weather is over for the time being. The whole Aragon front lies deep in snow. The mountain passes are choked with constant blizzards. Visibility for aerial reconnoitering is restricted to a few hours daily at the best. And then, there is the new Loyalist army, a force of 500,000 men, "well supplied with equipment and munitions," says Mr. Fernsworth, at last ready to take the field in the place of the popular militia units who have hitherto borne the brunt of the fighting.

On the Loyalist side no decisive engagements are expected till next spring. The Loyalist government, too, is playing for time, in the hope of a stalemate, which will ultimately, it hopes, lead to some compromise with Franco. For the suggestion is gaining headway that the best way to end the whole tragic business would be to divide Spain into two independent states, on the model of Ireland, the Loyalists in charge of the eastern part and Franco, roughly speaking, of the western part.

Until recently Loyalist statesmen would not hear of such a proposal, would not even discuss it, but a division into spheres of interests seems not seriously envisaged on that side at any rate. Of course, officially, both sides hold out for the whole cake, still refuse to talk to each other, still talk about a war to the end. But behind the scenes are in touch with each other, have begun to think at least of different solutions than who destruction and extermination.

LOYALISTS CLAIM INSURGENTS RINGED

Reds Boast of Major Victory as Plot on Franco Is Reported.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Dec. 16.—(UP)—The Spanish civil war's long deadlock appeared ready to break tonight as Loyalists boasted of their first major victory in months and reports seeped through tightly sealed frontiers of a plot to assassinate Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The Loyalists announced that a "glorious" offensive had cut the main road between Teruel and Calatayud and the parallel railroad.

Such a victory, if actually attained, would completely isolate the spearhead of Franco's deep salient directly east of Madrid and smash his hopes of cutting off beleaguered Madrid from Valencia, Barcelona and the eastern seaboard.

The government defense ministry said that a steel ring had been drawn about Teruel, one of the strongest insurgent bases in all Spain, where 60,000 insurgent troops are garrisoned.

Reports spread tonight that Franco's closing of the French, Portuguese and Gibraltar frontiers bordering on his conquered territory was due to a "vast conspiracy by foreign elements" to attack the insurgents and assassinate him.

The reports, prominently displayed by the exchange telegraph agency and the Daily Mail in London, came mostly from Lisbon.

Students Use Drum and Coffee in "Boning"

The problem of keeping awake during the difficult period of "boning" for midyear examinations at Emory University was solved uniquely by Robert Shoop, who banged a drum when he felt himself succumbing to an urge to sleep.

Jimmy number, of Clarksville, Miss., an honor student, used the time-honored method of drinking coffee to stave off sleep. Examinations begin today, and continue through next Tuesday.

SMALL HOME LOANS SEEN FOR FARMERS

Brown Seeks Provision in New Housing Act Reported in House.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Farmers in suburban areas of Georgia who wish to erect cheap new homes or repair old ones, were given a chance to come within terms of the new housing act reported to the house today, when that body's committee on banking and currency adopted the Brown amendment providing for loans not to exceed $2,500 for the financing of such new structures.

Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton, author of the amendment and majority member of the committee, said the measure, if adopted, would insure new homes for farmers who could not afford expensive structures.

"People who can afford homes costing more than $2,500 can get all the money they want from other sources than the government," Representative Brown declared, "and I thought some one in congress should look after the interests of those less fortunate. Inasmuch as our committee was practically unanimous in favor of my amendment and the federal housing administrator, Stewart McDonald, endorsed it, I anticipate no trouble in getting favorable action by the house."

Lighting of Yule Scene At Mansion Postponed

Lighting of a Christmas scene at the Governor's mansion in memory of Major D. F. McClatchey, originator of the idea, has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, it was announced yesterday.

Mid-Year Exams At Emory Bring Training Stunts

Athletes training for strenuous sports competition have nothing on students at Emory University, where many and varied attempts to beat the mid-year exams, which begin today, were revealed yesterday.

A few students rose with the dawn and got in a mile or two of cross-country running, to make them mentally alert during the "boning" period.

Others worked an alternation plan, sleeping for three hours and studying for three hours. Still others took a tip from the medical students by eating dextrose, or concentrated sugar, for its re-energizing powers.

Almost all students drank coffee, usually served at 10 o'clock at night in the fraternity houses, while many studied to the sounds of radios. Others "cramped" at meals, in barber chairs and in woods near the campus.

A large number studied in the conventional manner, either seated in a straight-back chair at a desk or sprawled on a bed or the floor.

The examinations will be held until next Tuesday.

MOSELEY NAMED BY HOTEL GROUP

In addition, the association passed a resolution endorsing the cyclorama improvement program.

GAINS ARE RECORDED FOR COTTON GINNINGS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—Census Bureau estimates showed today that leading cotton counties in the south had reported increased ginnings over last season. Ginning estimates for leading Georgia counties up to December 1 this year and for the same period last year, included:

CHAPLIN'S EX-WIFE TRYING COMEBACK

Mildred Harris Mimics Garbo in Burlesque Theater.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—She was a star of the silent movies but today she's impersonating Greta Garbo in a Brooklyn burlesque house, trying to get a foothold again on the road up to "big money."

At a burlesque theater on a Brooklyn side street, someone introduced "the lovely little lady of the stage and screen."

From behind the curtains stepped Mildred Harris Chaplin, former wife of Charlie Chaplin. She sang and then she said she would impersonate Greta Garbo, a girl who was working in a Stockholm beauty parlor when Mildred Harris Chaplin was a Hollywood queen.

The burlesque patrons gave her an ovation.

WEATHER HALTS FLYER.

ROME, Dec. 16.—(P)—The air ministry announced Captain Mario

Stoppani, Italian flyer, had halted because of weather at Cadiz, a few hours after his takeoff from Cagliari, Sardinia, in an attempted record long-distance flight to Rio de Janeiro.

Chocolate was used as a beverage long before it was adopted as a confection.

MEXICO BROADCAST UPHELD BY COURT

Fines and Sentences by Lower Tribunal Voted.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—(P)—The United States fifth circuit court of appeals held today that radio programs recorded in the United States could be broadcast from Mexico.

In doing so, the tribunal here voided fines and sentences imposed on Norman Baker and E. R. Rood, officials of station XENT at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, by the southern Texas district court.

The case is part of the United States government's long attempt to silence certain American-operated Mexican stations which can be heard in this country.

INSTITUTE PLAN FOR SOCIAL SYSTEM OFFERED BY HOOVER

President Accuses New Deal of Too Much Control Over Industry.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(UP)—The current recession's impermanence, Herbert Hoover said tonight, is "relief from pressures which stagnate billions of industrial and home construction and millions of jobs."

"It can be wholly objective on depression because certainly it did not create it," he jokingly said, "the Economic Club of Chicago, whose invitation described members as 'young men representative of the countless counterparts of the economic middle Americans.'"

Hoover offered an alternative economic and social system to the New Deal's planned economy, which he described as having the "fatal idea of shifting 'government' from the function of umpire to the function of directing, dictating and competing in our economic life."

Torn With Dissension.

If we look over the national scene," the former President said, "we will find every city, village, hamlet torn with dissension and a feeling of insecurity and fear."

This anxiety does not come from outside our borders. America is not alone of all the countries of the world is secure from the effects of war. There is not the slightest fear that our national independence will be challenged abroad."

The recession need not be serious, Mr. Hoover pointed out, "because the world economic movement still is upward, as against trend of 1929, and there is 'no' bubble of speculative price credit as in 1929."

New Deal Accused.
He accused the New Deal government of "increasingly controlling prices, wages, volume of production and investment."

Its weapons include politically managed currency, managed interest rates, expenditure in pump priming and inflation of bank deposits. Other weapons are to use relief funds to build the government competitive business. It has stretched the taxing powers deep to the control of business conduct. Regulation to prevent abuse has been stretched into instruments of dictation."

NO CHANGE FOR BINGHAM.
BALTIMORE, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Doctors at Johns Hopkins hospital tonight there had been "no change" in the condition of Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to Great Britain, who was operated Tuesday in an effort to diagnose his ailment.

Week Needed To Tell If Gift Eye Is Success

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Charity hospital doctors said today it would require a week or 10 days longer to determine whether the gift eye of Frank Chabina Jr., 19, could be put to satisfactory use.

On December 8 an operation was performed under which the cornea of the left eye of John Amos, 68, was transplanted to the eye of Chabina in the hope that Chabina could use it in recovering his sight, lost to that eye through an accident.

Amos has recovered from the operation and left the hospital. During a test while bandages were being replaced Chabina told the doctors he could see some light with the new eye but doctors said there was still doubt over the success of the operation.

Rose Bowl Is Complete Sellout Without Public Ticket Sale

Editor's note: break O' Day is by Ralph McGill, himself, today.

ABOARD G. M. S. SAMARIA (By Mail).—We had just gone down to the dining saloon and had worked through some Norwegian anchovies.

And there, just beneath the fish course, was listed: "Scotch Haggis." Just like that, "Scotch Haggis," leaping out at one in whose blood there bubbles a strain from Scotland. And let's have no leaping at conclusions. I do not mean anything blended and aged a number of years. I'm speaking of the Scotch blood. Robert, the Scot waiter, was hovering about.

"What about the haggis?" "The haggis, sir?" "Yes, as one whose forebears came from the border country of Scotland, I think I should eat a bit of haggis." Robert was troubled. His eyes were sad.

"It's very good, sir," he said.

"Well, how about a bit of haggis?"

"Well, sir, I'll tell you. A haggis, sir, should be borne into the table with skirl of the pipes, sir. And not merely just carried in, sir."

"What will we do about it?"

"Well, sir, I'll tell you. You hum a bit of a Scotch tune, sir, and so will I and we will serve the haggis."

He disappeared and soon he returned. I was humming a bit from one of Robert Burns' poems. Robert's face was beaming above the steaming haggis which reposed triumphantly on a silver platter.

THE SERVING OF THE HAGGIS.

Robert bore the platter to the serving table and employed a sharp knife. He slit the protecting covering and there arose new steam and an aroma of spices and of savory meat.

Now, only a Scot can eat haggis. And even the weak Scots, who have strayed away from their birthright, cannot eat the national dish of Scotland. The haggis is the national dish and it is an honored one. It is produced from the grain and the meat of the country and it is a modest dish as to cost. In a way it is typical of the Scotch character, honoring that which is honest and frugal and of the people. A sheep supplies, aside from the spices and the oatmeal and barley, all that goes into a haggis, even to the covering in which it is cooked. It is served hot and with a gravy. And Robert tells me that there are two or three companies which make haggis and ship them in sealed tins all over the world to home-sick Scots and to Robert Burns' clubs everywhere. I was sorry not to have Eleanor McAuliffe

TIDE AND BEARS WILL EACH GET AROUND $90,000

$300,000 Gate Assured for Pasadena New Year's Day Classic.

By JACK GUENTHER.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 16.—(UP)—For the first time in history, every ticket to a Rose Bowl game has been disposed of before the ducks were put on sale, Harry Davis, in charge of the non-existent ticket sale, announced tonight.

More than 250,000 persons wanted to get into the bowl, which holds 85,000 spectators, on New Year's Day to see the clash between the football teams of the Universities of California and Alabama.

The stadium may be enlarged again as a result of the current ticket situation. In the last 12 years sizeable additions have been made twice. This year 800 extra seats have been built in and 2,000 other persons will sit on temporary bleachers. But such slight additions are ludicrous in face of the overwhelming demands for admittance.

The reason the "standing room only" sign was out before the ticket sale started is the University of California. The school handles all tickets, even those which finally are sold to local citizens and Alabama rooters.

The Golden Bear Alumni Association's 30,000 members have first crack at the tickets, each alumnus being entitled theoretically to six tickets. They won't get that many, however, because this would figure to more than twice the number of seats in the stadium and, besides, some blocks have to be reserved for Alabama and the city.

Despite the unprecedented demand for the pastebards, a new high in gate receipts will not be set, because they are priced at the comparatively moderate figures of $3.50 and $4.50. Top money mark of $308,000 was established by Pittsburgh and the University of Southern California seven years ago. The 1938 gate probably will reach $300,000, with taxes deducted. Each team will receive approximately $90,000.

Charley Holm Stars In Tide Scrimmage.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 16.—(P)—Alabama's first and second teams scrimmaged for half an hour each today against the freshmen, who executed California plays.

The Tidesmen scrimmaged with high spirits, in anticipation of their New Year's Day game with the Golden Bears at Pasadena. Their rugged workout was punctuated with shouts of enthusiasm. The work of Charley Holm, red-shirted fullback, was outstanding. Joe Kilgore and Frank Mosely were the defensive halfbacks on the No. 1 eleven.

Michigan State To Leave Monday.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Dec. 16.—(P)—Members of the Michigan State College football team went home today for a four-day vacation before leaving for Florida Monday to meet Auburn in the Orange Bowl tilt January 1 at Miami.

Mid-year examinations brought a close to football activity and Coach Charley Bachman said that a rest at home would be better for his squad than workouts. The team will leave late Monday for Detroit, where its special car will be hitched to a Florida-bound train. Bachman said the 41 players would arrive in Gainesville, Fla., Wednesday and work out for two days on the University of Florida field. Bachman was head coach at Florida for five years.

Bachman said the squad would leave Gainesville for Miami on December 26 for additional drill before the game.

L. S. U. Settles Down To Hard Work Today.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 16.—(P)—Trainer Mike Chambers sent Louisiana State's football players scrambling up and down the steep tier of seats of the Tiger stadium today to get them into condition for the Sugar Bowl game.

Six round trips of the long climb left the 35 squadmen exhausted. A playful session of "touch" football rounded out the brief practice.

Queen at Rose Bowl

Miss Cheryl Walker (above) has been chosen queen of the 1938 Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day, when Alabama and California football teams clash in the Rose Bowl. She will ride with her court in the floral parade, the theme of which will be "Playland Fantasies."

Alabama's 5 Bowl Trips Net Nearly Half Million

Bears and Tide Probably Will Play Before Second Largest Rose Bowl Crowd.

By JACK TROY.

As a financial venture, these fairly steady excursions to California to play in the Rose Bowl have been much more profitable than a modern gold rush to the University of Alabama.

For the gold's in the bowl. In four previous trips, Alabama has gone home with close to $300,000. And this time, with ticket sales already closed, the gate is expected to go in excess of $298,000.

All this means is that Alabama's share will run the five-game total almost to a half a million dollars. And just think of the glory, too! The prospect is that California and Alabama will play before the second largest crowd in Rose Bowl history. The all-time record was set in the Southern California-Pittsburgh game of 1930. A crowd of 65,309 paid $308,421.15 for the privilege of smelling the roses—and weren't the roses sweet when Southern Cal bounced Pitt, 47 to 14?

Anyway, it has been a virtual bonanza for Alabama—the Rose Bowl has.

Alabama, on the other hand, has always given full value. No one has been disappointed yet at the showing made by an Alabama team, starting with the Wallace Wade team of 1926. Washington was vanquished, 20 to 19, and the gate was $146,000, second largest in history at the time.

Three victories and a tie provide a rather estimable record. And a lot of folks might well think of that if and when they feel inclined to under-rate the present team and concede California all the edge.

Alabama is a "money" team—a team that always produces in the pinch. Two straight years without a defeat help to bear this statement out.

A table of attendance and receipts for the last eleven bowl games follows:

Date	Teams	Paid Atnd	Gate Rcpts.
1927	Stanford-Ala.	52,354	$218,947.72
1928	Stanford-Pitt.	62,180	$468,826.00

VERNON GOMEZ IS RANKED NO. 1 COMEBACK STAR

Guldahl Second, Louis Third; Bitsy Grant Gets Two Points.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—The country's sports writers put their stamp of approval today on Vernon (Goofy) Gomez as the hero of 1937's most amazing athletic comeback.

Casting their ballots in the Associated Press' seventh annual poll, the writers gave the New York Yankees' star southpaw pitcher a decisive edge over Ralph Guldahl, United States open golf champion, and Joe Louis, king of the world's heavyweight boxers.

Nineteen of the 53 participating writers cast their first-place ballots for Gomez who after two lean years, came back to lead the American league in effectiveness and pitch the Yankees to two World Series victories over the New York Giants.

All told Gomez picked up 69 points in the balloting against 40 for Guldahl who received nine first-place votes. Louis was third with 34 points and Johnny Goodman fourth with 26.

Although the writers mentioned no fewer than 42 individuals, only four of these were women.

Tabulation of the poll (points on a 3-2-1 basis as each writer made three nominations in order of his preference):

First Pl.	Points
Vernon Gomez, top-ranking American League pitcher	19 69
Ralph Guldahl, U. S. open golf champion	9 40
Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion	6 34

Charley Kurlander, jockey	1 9
Johnny Allen, Cleveland Indians' pitcher	1 8

THREE POINTS: Myril Hoag, Yankees' outfielder; Chick Harley, Cincinnati outfielder; Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn manager; Max Schmeling, German heavyweight; Nels Stewart, New York Americans' hockey player; Lou Fette, Boston Red Sox pitcher; Glenn Collet Vare, golfer.

TWO POINTS: Vincent Richards, pro tennis player; Tony Galento, heavyweight boxer; Billy Grant and Frankie Farker, lightweights; Jim London, wrestler; Kid Chocolate, boxer; Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox shortstop; Helen Willis Moody, tennis player.

The golfing dub is given official recognition in at least two spots. There is a dubious golf club at Orlando, Fla., and a dubbo club in New South Wales.

Pro Golfers Sail For Nassau Open

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 16.—(UP)—The professional golfing brigade, making the swing of the rich Gulf Stream winter circuit, sailed aboard the S. S. New Northland today for the Bahamas to compete in the fourth annual $3,500 Nassau Open which starts Saturday.

Heading the list of name golfers who will compete were Willie Macfarlane, the defending champion; Johnny Revolta, winner of the recent Miami Biltmore Open; Bobby Cruickshank and Leo Malory, former Nassau Open winners; P. G. A. Champion Denny Shute, Sam Snead, Dick Metz and Horton Smith.

The tournament, which will be over the 72-hole route, calls for 18 holes of play Saturday and Sunday, and a 36-hole finale on Monday. Macfarlane set a record for the tournament in winning last year with a 266, but the course where it is played has been toughened this year.

- Rose Bowl Bound -

Crisp Says Tide Was Anxious for Bid in 1930, for They Had Two Good Teams and Were Confident.

In this third story by Hank Crisp, of Alabama's Rose Bowl journey, the University of Alabama athletic director takes you out to Washington State game and tells you how the Tide's two-team system worked against the big boys from way up the Pacific coast. Hank Crisp has been with every Tide team going west and so has Z. Newman, who transcribes the Crisp story of what goes on behind closed gates of a Rose Bowl practice and strategy meeting.

By HANK CRISP.

Alabama's lean years came after the Rose Bowl game of 1926. Graduations in 1926 and 1927 left Coach Wade facing the task starting all over again. We lost 10 games the next three years. Injuries riddled Wade's efforts in 1928 and 1929, but he stuck to the system of offense he was introducing. It wasn't a question of tiring four sound backs, but one for some of the games.

Coach Wade's hard work in 1928 and 1929 paid off handsomely in Alabama victories in 1930. Alabama came up with two football teams. Our second team usually started and played almost as much as the first team. It was a very fine defensive team. Wade produced his third national championship team in 1930 and Alabama received the third invitation to play in the Rose Bowl the night of Thanksgiving, after Alabama had won from Vanderbilt. This time Alabama really was keen to go to the Pacific coast. We had a football team and knew it was the best of the three. We had the reserves this time.

Cox Licks Speer One Fall in Wild 90-Minute Match

Frank Speer put up the hardest and most impressive wrestling performance he ever waged in an Atlanta ring last night but was pinned one fall in a wild and savage 90-minute battle with Joe Cox, the untamed Missouri bronco.

The goodly gathering of fans was in the aisles during a greater portion of the he-man brawl and the wrestlers joined them there many times as they engaged in "alley fighting" tactics in and out of the ring.

Cox won a fall in 67 bruising minutes, after repeatedly gouging Speer's eyes with his thumbs and connecting with a haymaker to make the victory complete. Several times Cox had tried to pull Speer's head against the ring posts as he had other foes, but the cagey ex-Jacket tackle always managed to slip under him and come up with a toe hold. Speer also attempted to ram Cox's head against the posts twice.

They wrestled the remaining minutes with honors about even. At the finish, Referee Tiny Ruff was a sorry sight, dead tired, bleeding at the mouth and thoroughly subdued.

Ed Meske, young Akron star, continued his victory streak, disposing of Mike Strelch in three falls.

Jim Coffield pinned Wally Duksek in 12 minutes.

The net proceeds were to be turned over to the Christmas charity funds of the three Atlanta papers.

SPALDING HIGH, MOULTRIE TEAM IN CLASH TODAY

State Championship, Gold Trophy Will Be Awarded Victor at Albany.

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Pigskin power and football razzle-dazzle will be arrayed against each other when Moultrie's South Georgia Football Association champions come to grips with the Spalding High (Griffin) eleven, co-champions and designated representatives of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference, in Albany stadium tomorrow at 2 p. m., central time.

Reports from the rival camps have carried interest to a new high. Despite injuries in the final encounter with Waycross for the S.G.F.A. title, Packer Coach Grant Gillis has led his pile-driving charges in spirited drills which indicate no letdown from the fierce play that carried them through a rigorous schedule and two association play-offs to the South Georgia championship.

With the North Georgia representatives, Coach Art Graves has followed a stiff schedule this week

Harry Mehre Applies For Mississippi Post

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi Athletic board deferred action today on selecting a new football coach until January 4.

A subcommittee composed of Professor T. A. Bickerstaff, faculty chairman of the board; Britt Rogers, Tupelo, alumni commit-tee man, and Jeff Hamm, resident alumni secretary, was appointed to invite and solicit applications for the post vacated by Coach Ed Walker, who did not ask reappointment.

Chancellor A. B. Butts, ex-officio member of the athletic board, said it received "about seven applications" today, including one from Harry Mehre, who recently resigned as head coach at Georgia.

"No action was taken on any of the applications," Chancellor Butts said, "and the board agreed to defer consideration of the coaching situation until the special meeting January 4."

to round his lateral-passing aggre-gation into shape after two weeks of comparative inactivity await-ing the outcome of the South Georgia grid controversy.

With the state championship and the Albany Herald trophy at stake, the game takes on added significance in view of the fact that the occasion will mark Georgia's first Class B high school titu-lar combat.

Letters Given 19 Marist Gridmen

Nineteen Marist College football players were awarded letters by Coach Louis Van Houten at the annual banquet last night at the Anshley hotel.

Coach Van Houten also an-nounced the 1938 schedule of 11 games. Teams in the Atlanta area which Marist will play are North Fulton, Tech High, Boys' High, Decatur, G. M. A. and Commer-cial. Another game is sought Sep-tember 16, now an open date. Final arrangements for the Benedictine and Columbus Industrial games have not been made yet but are expected to be completed in a short time.

Short talks were made by Fath-er P. H. Dagneau, principal of Marist College; Father C. J. Ryan, director of athletics, and Coach Van Houten.

In spite of their hard schedule next fall, Coach Van Houten ex-pects a strong club with 18 of the 19 lettermen returning.

Lettermen are "Yank," Cumber-worth, Bobby Wright, "Peg" Ty-

PUBLICITY UPSETS SECRET PROGRAM OF BLOC IN SENATE

Document Urged Tax Revision, Other Measures To Encourage Investment.

Editor's Note: The article which first brought to public attention the fact that a group of Republicans and Democrats was circulating a document for signature, referred to in the story below, was carried exclusively on The Constitution's editorial page Wednesday morning in "The Capital Parade," written by Joseph Alsop and Robert Kinnear. Every detail of the "document" was given and Senator Vandenberg was stated to be author.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Premature publicity upset today the secret arrangements a small group of Republican and Democratic senators had made to outline a 10-point recovery program in an "address to the people of the United States."

Some of those who participated in the movement were highly resentful toward senators they suspected of making public the document, which they had intended to issue only after persuading a large group in both parties to subscribe to it.

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, was the first to acknowledge a part in preparation of the "address," which urged tax revision and other measures to encourage investment of private capital.

Vandenberg Reserved. Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, also said he had participated, but Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, who was reported to be one of the authors, still regarded the matter as being so confidential he would not discuss it.

Vandenberg issued a statement, however, subscribing to the program.

"I have nothing to say about the origin or the personnel of the confidential meetings of men who are interested in their country without regard to party," he said.

"But I am more than glad to once more endorse the view that like minded Americans should work together in this emergency and to subscribe without reservation to the general doctrine tentatively outlined in the published

British Royal Pair Smile as Car Is Hit

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth only smiled today when a small car crashed into the royal limousine in Trafalgar Square. They were en route to Buckingham palace from a charity matinee.

No one was injured and damage was slight. An eyewitness said: "I saw the King look out the window and then smile. The Queen looked anxious for a moment, but then she smiled too. She looked back as they drove off to the palace."

draft of what was intended to have been an address to the American people.

Vandenberg's reported participation had lent significance to the document because of his frequent proposals in the past for a coalition political movement.

Denies It Was Partisan. But Bailey, a frequent critic of the New Deal, insisted the statement was not "a manifesto," nor a "coalition plan," and added there was "nothing partisan about it."

"It is a statement of views anyone in America may espouse or reject," Bailey said. "I hope President Roosevelt will support those views."

"It was not circulated for the purpose of forming a bloc, but rather to form an affirmative policy. I think the policy will be formed."

Bailey and some of the others in the group expressed hope that, despite premature publication, the program might find a widespread response from the public.

"I subscribe to the statement 100 per cent," he said. "I believe a great many senators subscribe to it."

Senator Austin also expressed hope that the document might be taken up as a platform declaration by some party in the future. He said the movement in the senate apparently had gone as far as it could, in view of the premature publication.

Not Widely Circulated. It became evident that the document had originated with a small group and had not been very widely circulated when its existence became known publicly.

Those who drafted the "address" hoped to obtain support from 30 or more senators before making it public.

Apparently most of those they first approached were somewhat reluctant to sign the statement. Some, including Republican Leader McNary of Oregon, refused.

The program included thorough revision of the undistributed profits taxes, a steady approach toward a balanced budget, "just relations between capital and labor," reliance upon profitable investment of private savings, recognition of the profit motive, recognition of the superiority of the competitive system, maintenance of states' rights, economical non-partisan and non-political distribution of relief, and preservation of the American system of private enterprise.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR T. A. LYNCH SR.

Funeral services for Thomas A. Lynch Sr., 65, life-long resident of Atlanta, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack Wednesday night, will be conducted at 9:30 o'clock this morning in Sacred Heart church.

Father John Emmerth will officiate and burial will follow in Oakland cemetery under the direction of Sam R. Greenberg.

Mr. Lynch was born here. He was a graduate of Boys' High school. He lived in a downtown hotel and had been in poor health for several years.

GORDON STREET PASTOR MARKS HIS 13TH YEAR

The Rev. Harold Shields, pastor of the Gordon Street Presbyterian church, will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of his pastorate Sunday.

The membership of the church is now double what it was 13 years ago, at present being nearly 700. An outstanding debt of about $20,000 has been paid off, and plans are now under way for enlarging the church building.

In addition, the Sunday school now boasts an average attendance of nearly 500 boys and girls.

MIND WENT BLANK, SAYS RIVAL SLAYER

Mate Testifies Wife Admitted Being Untrue.

DETROIT, Dec. 16.—(AP)—William Hawthorne took the witness stand today to state that 10 minutes before he allegedly shot and killed his secret wife and John M. Barrett, his wife had told him Barrett was the father of a child as yet unborn to her.

Hawthorne, former college track star and probationary Detroit policeman, said his mind then became a blank and he does not remember the actual killings.

His brief testimony was the highlight of a trial which had previously brought both his mother and Barrett's mother to the witness stand.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. M. J. KING

Services for Mrs. Margaret J. King, 84, formerly of the society department of The Constitution, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the graveside in West View cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son. She died Monday night of a heart attack in Pensacola, Fla. She lived in Dallas, Texas, and had been away from Atlanta about 30 years, but frequently visited here. Mrs. King was passing through Pensacola en route to Atlanta from a trip to Mexico.

ENGAGEMENT DENIED BY RUTH CHATTERTON

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Movie Actress Ruth Chatterton in her London home tonight expressed bewilderment at a Lisbon report she was there last week en route to marry a Madeira merchant, Carlos Freitas Martins. She was even more puzzled by a later report that she had returned to London and there denied the engagement. "I have been in London November 7," she said, "I have been in Portugal or Madeira in my life. I can only in someone was impersonating me. Certainly I am not marrying him. In fact I never heard of him before."
